The present work is an attempt to study various aspects of the folklore of the Meitei people of Manipur valley. The study has grown out of my interest in folklore in general on the one hand and in Meitei life and culture in particular on the other.

This work has been possible only with various kinds of help received from a host of well-wishers, friends and acquaintances and a large number of informants belonging to different parts of Manipur valley. I am taking the opportunity of acknowledging my indebtedness to all of them. While the production of a full list of all of them will be an almost impossible task, I shall be failing in my duties if I do not express my sense of gratitude to at least some of them.

I am greatly indebted to Dr Birendranath Datta, Head of the Department of Folklore Research, Gauhati University, Gauhati, who offered me valuable advice and guidance for this study. Indeed, without his unstinted support, critical and constructive suggestions I could not possibly have completed this piece of pioneering work. I express immense gratitude to Dr Birendranath Datta for all that he did for me.

I am also grateful to Dr P. Goswami, Retired Professor and Head, Department of Folklore Research, Gauhati University, Gauhati, for his valuable suggestions in preparing this thesis.
My two friends Dr Kh. Tomba Singh and Dr T. Manglem Singh encouraged me first to undertake this research work and I offer my thanks to them.

I am also thankful particularly to these scholars and village elders of Manipur valley who have very kindly and promptly co-operated with me in furnishing all the relevant information during my visits to their respective areas:

I am particularly grateful to Dr Kh. Tomba Singh, Lecturer, Department of English, Thoubal College, Thoubal for his kindly taking the pain of going through the manuscript.

I am also obliged in different ways to the following friends and well-wishers: Sarva Shri N. Budhachandra Singh, Retd. District and Sessions Judge, Manipur now Director of Public Prosecution, Government of Manipur; Principal K.
Hemchandra Singh, Oriental College; Late S. Joykishore Singh, Headmaster, Tondombisana Higher Secondary School; Dr S. Ibochaoba Singh, Department of Geography, Oriental College; Prof. Th. Joykumar Singh and K. Jaminikanta Singh, Sega Road, Leimajam Leikai. Special mention is to be made of Ak. Sunderkumar Singh, Lecturer in the Department of Geography, Churachandpur College for helping me prepare the maps.

I am also thankful to the Education Department, Government of Manipur for giving me study leave under the UGC's FIP programme.

My thanks are due to the members of my family, particularly my mother Huirem Ongbi Yaimabi Devi and also my younger brother, Dr H. Nimai Chand Singh for their taking genuine interest from the beginning of my work and for furnishing me with relevant information whenever they came by.

Here, I wish to thank Shri B. Barman for carefully typing the thesis within a short time.

Lastly, I owe a considerable special debt of gratitude to my wife Shrimati Huirem Ongbi Damayanti Devi, who has taken the loveliest interest in my work throughout the period I was engaged in cheerfully borne privations and inconveniences resulting from my almost constant pre-occupation and been a silent but sure source of strength and confidence whenever my patience and strength of mind seemed to be running out.
