ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

"There are two mistakes one can make along the road to truth ... not going all the way and not starting" (Buddha, 563-483 B.C.).

In fact, choosing the right subject and never giving up were probably the most difficult tasks in completing this doctoral dissertation. A number of people have helped me to avoid making these two mistakes, for which I would like to thank them. First of all, I want to thank my thesis advisor, Dr. Abhay Kumar Tiwari, for his unfailing faith and support throughout the dissertation development phase. He was always available for sharing thoughts, discussing proposals, and reviewing papers. It was both an honor and a pleasure to have him as a huge pillar of support behind my thesis.

I am also grateful to the other members of my doctoral advisory committee, Dr. Mary Ipe and Dr. Ravikiran Dwivedula, for their encouragement and constructive comments at various stages of my proposal and final dissertation. Furthermore, I would like to thank Dr. Subhadip Roy (Indian Institute of Management Udaipur) and Dr. Prageetha Raju G. (IFHE University Hyderabad) for discussing various research related issues and sharing their insights whenever requested. Special thanks go to Dr. Manish Kumar Srivastava (ICFAI University Dehradun), Prof. Prafulla Kumar Dash (Registrar, ICFAI University Dehradun) and to Dr. S.C. Deorani (Vice Chancellor, ICFAI University Dehradun) for their encouragement and insightful comments during PhD progress seminars.

I am thankful to all those people who participated in the empirical studies. I would also like to thank the employees of the anonymous HR consultancy firms who helped me to collect data for my study. Special thanks go to all the faculty members and program coordinators at the three institutes at Gurgaon, Kolkata and Hyderabad for facilitating the experimental surveys. My gratitude to the IT people who made sure that the technical peripherals were in proper order in order to demonstrate the experimental websites, show the streaming video and connect to the hyperlinked web pages.

On a personal note, I would like to express my gratitude towards my family members—especially my parents who have always believed that their son sees the world differently and to my beloved wife Debjani who has stood by me through thick and thin for the past two years while I had been burning midnight oil to finish off the dissertation. Lastly, it would not have been possible for me to finish this project without the support and encouragement of some of my closest friends whom I have met during my PhD with ICFAI, especially Prof. Ritu Gupta and Prof. Jighyasu Gaur without whose moral support I would have probably given up on everything long time ago. Thank you my friends.

Pratyush Banerjee
ICFAI University Dehradun, India