CONTENTS

Preface .................................................. (i) - (ii)

CHAPTER I. : INTRODUCTION ........................... i - x
Scope and Nature of the Study
The People
The Land
The Terms of Kuki, Chin, Lushai and Mizo
Ethnology of the Mizos
Origin of the Mizos
Traditional Home of the Mizos
Coming of the Mizos to their Present Habitat
The Kabow (Kubo) Valley or Shan State Settlement
Chin Hills Settlement
The Present Settlement

CHAPTER II. : THE STRUCTURE OF PRE-BRITISH MIZO SOCIETY ........................................... 40 - 115

Part - I
The Family Structure
The Political Institution
The Social Institutions
The Village Life
The Economic Life

Part - II
Religious Beliefs
Inthawina (Sacrifices)
Kut (Festivals)
Head-hunting Practices
CHAPTER III. : FACTORS OF CHANGE .......................... 114 - 105

Early Anglo-Mizo Relations and the British Occupation of Mizo Hills

The Introduction of British Administration in Mizoram

The Coming of the Christian
Missions

The Introduction of Education

The Economic Development

Means of Communications

Legislation

The Growth of Population

The Growth of Political Consciousness

CHAPTER IV. : AREAS OF CHANGE .............................. 156 - 258

The System of Government

The Abolition of Bawi

The Abolition of Zawlbuk

The Abolitions of Head-hunting and Other Sacrifices

The Emergence of Voluntary Organization

The Birth of Political Party

Changes in Social Customs

Introductions of New Phenomena in the Society

CHAPTER V. : RESPONSE TO CHANGE ............................ 240 - 377

In the Political Sphere

In the Social Sphere

In the Religious Sphere

In the Educational Sphere
CHAPTER VI: EPILOGUE

The Formation of the District Council
The Abolition of Chieftainship
The Formation of the Village Council
The Political Development After 1954
The Abolition of Personal Residence Surcharge, Cooly, Sachhiah, Chikhurchhiah, Khuaichhiah, Thirdeangchhian and Fathang

CHAPTER VII: CONCLUSION

APPENDICES
GLOSSARY
ABBREVIATIONS USED
BIBLIOGRAPHY