While completing this humble work, I cannot but express my sincerest and deepest gratitude to my Professor and guide Prof. Chandrodaya Bhattacharya, Associate Professor, Indian Academy of Philosophy, Calcutta and Part-time Lecturer in the Department of Philosophy, University of Burdwan for his invaluable guidance in writing this treatise.

I am immensely grateful to Dr. J. N. Mohanty, M. A. Dr. Phil., former Head of the Department of Philosophy, University of Burdwan and at present Research Professor of Philosophy, University of Oklahoma, U.S.A. for his constant encouragement and kind help to me. I am also indebted to Prof. Hemanta Kumar Nyaya Tarka Tirtha of Bijaya Chatuspathi, Burdwan and Part-time Lecturer in Sanskrit and in Philosophy, University of Burdwan for his help in my study of certain original Sanskrit texts.

In this connection, I cannot but convey my respectful gratitude to Late Dr. Sanat Kumar Roy Choudhuri, Lecturer in the Department of Philosophy, University of Burdwan, as it was he who first suggested to me the idea of doing some research and helped me with valuable instructions. I also acknowledge my indebtedness to Prof. Sivajivan Bhattacharya, Head of the Department of Philosophy and Dean of the Faculty of Arts, University of Burdwan, Prof. D. P. Sen, Reader in Philosophy and Dr. M. K. Bhadra, Reader in Philosophy, University of Burdwan for their kind and constant advice. I am especially thankful to the Officers of the Central Library of the University for their uniform kindness in making the resources of the Library available to me.

Finally, I offer my warm and sincere thanks to the authorities of the Burdwan University and the University Grants Commission for giving me the opportunity of doing research as a U.G.C. Scholar.
