

A C K N O W L E D G E M E N T S

This work was undertaken by me in 1980 as a D.Phil research programme in the Burdwan University under the supervision of Professor Dr Manoranjan Chaudhuri, who holds the chair of Geography in the said University.

I owe deep sense of gratitude to my respected teacher Professor Dr Manoranjan Chaudhuri who has been a constant source of inspiration, information and guidance to me in laying out the scheme of study, collection and interpretation of data. I shall always be grateful for his patience, encouragement, supervisions, and guidance in the preparation of this thesis.

I am also grateful to Dr Sudhindra Nath Mukherjee, Reader in Geography, Calcutta University, Sri Satya Brata Goswami, Assistant Professor and Head of the Department of Geography, Chandan-nagar College, Dr Nikhil Krishna De, Department of Geography, University of Burdwan who constantly inspired me through their learned papers and valuable suggestion.

I am indebted to Sri Lakshman Chandra Kolay, Assistant Headmaster, Narua Siksha Niketan who has greatly inspired me to take up the research work on Agriculture by providing me with valuable field information.

I express my obligation to Sri Anadi Prasad Mukherjee, Assistant Professor and Head of the Department of Geography, Presidenc

College, Calcutta, and Sri Indrajit Mondal, Advocate, High Court, Calcutta for their helpful discussions and suggestion.

I express my sincere thanks and gratefulness to the officials of Principal Agriculture Office, Hooghly, Government of West Bengal, Sub-Divisional Agriculture Office, Serampore, Hooghly, Directorate of Agricultural Statistics, Government of West Bengal and Indo German Fertilizer Corporation, Chandannagar, Hooghly who have lent their assistance in providing me with valuable field data and information.

Finally I acknowledge my debt to Sri Gopal Chatterjee, Cartographer, Presidency College, Calcutta who has rendered sincere service in cartography and Sri Bhabani Ghatak, Secretary to Vice-Chancellor, Burdwan University for his assistance in the work.

In spite of efforts of all concerned limitations and inadequacies could not be ruled out. I hold myself responsible for all such limitations.
