ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The materials for the present study were collected from the Indian Council of World Affairs Library at Sepra House, New Delhi, the Library of the Government of India, Ministry of External Affairs, New Delhi, the American Library, New Delhi, the American Studies Research Centre Library, Hyderabad, the J.N.U. Library, New Delhi, the Guwahati University Library (now K.K. Handiqui Library) and the Assam State Library, Guwahati. Further, I availed myself of the opportunity offered by the postal loan service of the American Library, Calcutta, to borrow important books for reference. Some materials were also supplied in Xerox copies by the University of Liverpool, U.K.; and they were of immense help. Some materials particularly copies of newspapers and periodicals had to be collected through friends in foreign countries. My sincere thanks are due to the librarians and their staff members concerned for their sincere help and co-operation. My friends outside also deserve my heartfelt thanks for sending relevant materials.

I am most profoundly grateful and deeply indebted indeed to my mentor and guide of the present work, Dr. D.P. Barooah, Professor and Head of the Department of Political Science and Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Guwahati University, who despite his heavy preoccupations gave me inspiring guidance and valuable help through all the stages of this study.

I am equally profoundly grateful and deeply indebted to my teacher Dr. V.B. Mishra, Professor and Head of the Department of History and formerly Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Guwahati University, for his constant encouragement and blessings apart from the interest he had infused in me for American history.
I am also very grateful to Dr. M.S. Venkateswara and Dr. M.S. Shrivastava of J.N.U., New Delhi, Dr. P.S. Supte of Delhi University, and Dr. P. Misra of Sagar University (as they were associated with me) for their valuable suggestions at the initial stage of progress of my present study.

I am equally grateful to Dr. H.K. Barpajari, formerly Professor and Head of the Department of History, and Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Gauhati University, for his valuable suggestions. My thanks of gratitude are also due to my colleagues in the Department of History, Gauhati University, for their constant encouragement in the pursuit of this study.

I am also thankful to the authorities of the Gauhati University for having sanctioned me study leave on two occasions. The University Grants Commission, New Delhi, also deserves my thanks for the travel grants channelled through the Gauhati University to facilitate my several visits to New Delhi in connection with collection of materials used in this study.

Further, many of my friends, especially Dr. S. Baruah and Mr. P.C. Goswami, deserve thanks for their help and co-operation in a variety of ways.

I must also thank Mr. S. Das, who turned the wilderness of a handwritten manuscript into the first draft in typescript, and Mr. P. Jerman, who have taken much strain to turn the first draft in typescript into its present form.

Gauhati 781014
10 September 1964. (Ramju Gosbaruah
Lecturer,
Post-graduate Department of History,
Gauhati University.)