ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is beyond my capacity to express deep sense of gratitude and thanks to my respected teacher-guide Dr (Mrs) P.B. Das, Professor, Department of Anthropology, Gauhati University, who guided me with her valuable suggestions and advices throughout the whole period for preparing this thesis.

I am also grateful to my respected teacher Prof. T.C. Sharma, former Head of the Department of Anthropology, Gauhati University for allowing me to avail the facilities in the Department to complete the work.

I convey my gratitude to Prof. B.M. Goswami, Principal, Gauhati Medical College Hospital for allowing me to collect necessary data from the duodenal ulcer patients in his hospital.

I am thankful to my respected teachers Prof. A.C. Bhagabati, Head of the Department of Anthropology, Prof. B.M. Das, Dr. J. Ali, Dr B. Choudhari and Dr R. Das for their valuable opinion help and encouragement.

Help and co-operation especially extended by Dr Anup Kumar Das, Dr Amariyoti Roy Choudhari, Dr Bhabani Chakravartty, Nurses and Official Staff of Gauhati Medical College, Hospital are also praiseworthy.
I will be at fault if I do not bade thanks to Dr Sunil Kumar Barua, Investigator, Directorate of Census Operation, Assam for his valuable assistance and guidance towards making the work a success.

I cannot forget the help obtained from my father Mr Prakash Chandra Das, my husband Dr M.K. Palit and also Mrs P. Das, Mr S.K. Das, Mr S.M.S Bordoli, Mrs Indrani Das, Mrs Birina Hazarika, Mrs Anima Saikia, Miss Anakshi Das, Dr Sangeeta Saikia for their extended co-operation.

The patients of Gauhati Medical College Hospital who took pains to satisfy my queries during the case study of this work will be remembered for ever.

Finally, I must not forget to mention the name of Shri M.K.Phukon without whose finest touch this thesis would have remained incomplete.

To conclude, once again, I convey my sincerest thanks to all of my well wishers.
