ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It would not be possible for me to complete this thesis without cooperation and support from several sources at various stages of the research work. Although it is not possible to individually acknowledge everyone involved in this thesis, several persons and organizations deserve special mention.

The first and foremost is my supervisor, Dr. Dilip C. Nath, Ph.D., Professor and head, Department of Statistics, Gauhati University, whose simulative guidance, untiring help and valuable suggestions during the tenure of this study actually lead to the completion of this thesis.

I acknowledge the help and moral support from Dr. B.C. Kalita, Professor, department of Mathematics, G.U. Dr. Labananda Choudhuri and Dr. Kishore Das reader department of statistics, G.U. Special mention and thanks to Dr. Donna Leonetti, department of Anthropology, University of Washington, USA for her advice during the preparation of chapter III.

The acknowledgement cannot be concluded without expressing appreciation for the great pains taken by 1005 elderly people in different parts of Assam; who have spent their time and responded to a lengthy questionnaire with tremendous patience.

I have not forgotten too my friends who offered their tremendous help during the time of questionnaire preparation and data collection. During the time of data collection so many persons extended their helping hands. The doors of homes which were always open for me as rest camp were Ataur Rahman, Goutom Bailung and Pramod Bora of Guwahati, Pradip Chutia, of Goalpara College Dr. Dinesh Deka, Balen Chaudhury and Manabendra Das of Birjhora Mahavidyalaya. Birabrata Das Chaudhuri and Binay Sharma of Bongaigaon Polytechnique. Late Dharma Das of Guwahati. Narayan Sharma. Suren Sharma of Balowa village. Navajyoti Deka of Barbhala village. and my former students Ranajit, Jamuna, Goutam, Chandrima. and Nanda. All of them accompanied me in different areas during the time of data collection. Md.Latif Hussain. Chakra Dhar Das. and my student Juwel Deka tendered their technical support. Nirmal Das. Upal Dev. and Nihar Chakravarti offered their valuable suggestions during research work. It would be failure on my part if I don't acknowledge my debt to those mentioned above. I shall also remember the encouragement and help in some computer work to the couple Jnanendra Mahanta. and Lipi B. Mahanta of Guwahati.

I express due acknowledgement to Principal, Birjhora Mahavidyalaya for allowing me to pursue this research work.

Finally my appreciation goes to my wife Pranati for helping in scrutiny of data and supporting me in continuing the research work. My daughter Bidisha also showed appreciable patience during the preparation of this research work.
