CONTENTS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>INTRODUCTION</th>
<th>ARUNODAY AND THE BEGINNING OF JOURNALISM IN ASSAM</th>
<th>ASSAMESE PRESS UNDER RELIGIOUS PATRONAGE</th>
<th>TWILIGHT OF ARUNODAY AND THE IMPACT OF JONAKI AGE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>1.1 Background of the Press and the Printing Press in India</td>
<td>2.1 Christian Missionary enterprises in Assam</td>
<td>3.1 Reformatory movement in India in the first half of the 19th century and the role of the press</td>
<td>4.1 New wave of western education and the growth of the press in Assam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1.2 Consolidation of British power in Assam</td>
<td>2.2 Arunoday - Its aims and objects - the character of the paper</td>
<td>3.2 Religious patronage and the press in Assam</td>
<td>4.2 Press in search of religious unity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1.3 Advent of Christian Missionaries and establishment of the Baptist Mission in Assam</td>
<td>2.3 Role of Arunoday in the Assamese society - Attitude of the people</td>
<td>3.3 Press in search of religious unity</td>
<td>4.3</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Preface ........... 1-iv

Pages

Chapter I: INTRODUCTION ........... 1-24

Chapter II: ARUNODAY AND THE BEGINNING OF JOURNALISM IN ASSAM 25-45

Chapter III: ASSAMESE PRESS UNDER RELIGIOUS PATRONAGE 46-55

Chapter IV: TWILIGHT OF ARUNODAY AND THE IMPACT OF JONAKI AGE 46-55
Chapter V: ROLE OF THE PRESS AND RISE OF NATIONALISM IN ASSAM

V.I Notion of nationalist politics and the growth of Assamese journalism

V.II Freedom movement and the role of Assamese press

V.III Advent of Daily press vis-à-vis concept of Assamese nationalism

Chapter VI: PRESS, VEHICLE OF NEW IDEAS

VI.I Journals for children and women

VI.II Journals in search of professional skill and efficiency

VI.III Spokesman of associations, organisations and community interest

Chapter VII: ENGLISH PRESS IN ASSAM

VII.I The Times of Assam, the first English newspaper in Assam

VII.II English press and nationalism

VII.III Efforts in other directions

Chapter VIII: BENGALESE PRESS AND THE FORMATION OF PUBLIC OPINION IN EARLY BRITISH ASSAM

VIII.I Early Bengal press and Assam

VIII.II Impact on the Assamese elites