ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I express my sincere gratitude to my respected guides, Dr. Sandhya Goswami, Reader of Department of Political Science, Gauhati University, and Prof. (Dr.) N. Sanajaoba, Head of the Department of Law and Dean of the Faculty of Law, Gauhati University, for their constant encouragement and supervision.

At each stage of my research, I incurred many debts of gratitude to numerous people and institutions for their kind cooperation. I am indebted to the (then) Chairperson, Justice S. N. Bhargava and Staff of Assam Human Rights Commission. Staff of Assam State Commission for Women and also to the staff of the office of the Additional Director General of Police, Assam who have helped me with data, facts of the cases and other necessary information.

I want to take this opportunity, to offer my heartfelt thanks to the people of Satdola, Bamunbori, Ulubam, Senabar and Ward No. 7 and 19 of Guwahati Municipal Corporation for allowing me to have their opinion during the field work.

My special thanks go to the staff concerned of the following libraries - Gauhati University; Women's Studies Research Centre of Gauhati University; Omeo Kumar Das Institute of Social Change and Development, Guwahati; National Institute for Public Cooperation and Child Development, Guwahati; Suren Das College, Hajo; Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi; Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi; Tata Energy Research Institute, New Delhi; Ratan Tata Library, New Delhi and Women's Studies and Development Centre, Delhi University for their cooperation in collection of materials.
Last, but not the least I want to express my gratitude to my father Sjt. Hemendra Malla Buzarbaruah, who has been of constant inspiration and help to me since the selection of the topic, to my mother Smti. Kamala Buzarbaruah, for her encouragement and care, and to my brother, sisters and brother-in law for the valuable discussions and advice and also for supplying me with some necessary books.
