ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author feels immense pleasure in expressing his sincere thanks and deep sense of gratitude to Dr. U.J. Bordoloi, Director, Centre for Economic Research and Analysis and Editor, North Eastern Economic Review, who as the guide, has been a constant source of inspiration to undertake the work. The author has been amply benefitted for his invaluable advice, constructive criticisms and helpful suggestions in completing the work.

The author also expresses his sincere thanks and gratitude to Dr. P.D. Saikia, Director, Agro-Economic Research Centre for North East India, Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat and Dr. N. Saha, Associate Professor, Department of Agricultural Economics and Farm Management, Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat, who have not only encouraged him in completing the research work in time but also offered their valuable comments, suggestions and constructive criticisms of the draft. Special mention may be made of Dr. Saha who in spite of his heavy routine, has made time available in going through the draft for improvement of the analysis.

The author takes the privilege to convey his thanks to Dr. P.C. Bora, Dean, Faculty of Agriculture, Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat, who encouraged him to take up this work since he joined the Department of Tea Husbandry and Technology, Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat in June, 1972. Thanks are due to the Registrar, Assam Agricultural University, Jorhat for his kind permission to do research works under the Guwahati University.

The author takes this opportunity to convey his thanks to the Directors, Departments of Economics and Statistics, Agriculture, Soil Conservation and Forestry, Government of Assam for their help in providing him the necessary statistical data.

The author was also benefitted much from the discussions he had on the subject with Sri D. Goain, Dr. U. Phukan, Dr. T.N. Sainia, all Research Officers, Agro-Economic Research Centre, Jorhat. He offers his thanks to them. He is also thankful to all of his colleagues in his Department for their constant encouragement and help.

The author is grateful to Sri R.K. Goain, Senior Computer, Agro-Economic Research Centre, Jorhat for extending helping hand in tabulation of data. He is much thankful to Sri Lakshmidhar Bora, Senior Statistical Inspector and now District Statistical Officer, Kokrajhar; Sri Tankeswar Bordoloi, Librarian, District Library, Newgong; Mrs. Rom Deka, Lady Health Visitor, Barpajia Public Health Centre; Sri Hareswar Das, Dergon; Sri Jiben Chandra Bora, Jaladhora; Sri Tankeswar Patna, Nabotia Village; Sri Bidya Bora, Assistant Teacher, M.A.G.A.E.E. School, Mariani; Sri Tilok Chatia, Village Kalyanpur; Village Panchyat leaders and respondents for their cooperation in author's field investigation. The author offers his thanks to Sri M. Rajkhowa in helping in collecting data from tea gardens.

Thanks are also due to Sri Gokul Chandra Sarma, author's colleague for transmitting some valuable literature to him from the United States of America. The author also expresses his gratitude to Sri Aswini Kumar Sarma, Senior Research Assistant and Sri Dilip Kumar Barua, Senior Laboratory Assistant who helped him in preparation of maps, graphs and other charts.

The author must express his thanks to the Librarian of the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics Library, Pune; Bombay University Library, Bombay; Indian Agricultural Research Institute Library, New Delhi; Guwahati University Library, Assam Agricultural University Library, Tocklai Tea Experimental Station, Jorhat; College of Agricultural Banking, Reserve Bank of India Library, Pune; National Institute of Cooperation Library, Pune and Agro-Economic Research Centre for North East India, Jorhat for allowing him to use the library facilities.

The author's sincerest thanks are due to Sri Lohit Bordoloi for his painstaking work in typing out this thesis nicely within a span of short time. To be speaks of, the author cannot but forget about the sincere helps received from Sharvashree Shotot Chandra Bora and Devojit Bordoloi.
Last but not least, mention must be made of his wife Shrimati Binaya for her encouragement all throughout towards completion of this research work.

Dated Jorhat the 30th September, 1980.

Ajit Kumar Baru
(Ajit Kumar Baru)