11

Enhancing the Role of Women in Sustainable Development on Environment

Jyoti Diwakar*

"Life is a whole, it is a circle. That which destroys the circle should be stopped. That which maintain the circle should be strengthen and natural."

Julekha Begum
Peasant woman from Gaibandha, Bangladesh

Sustainable development is that development, the need of the present without compromising the ability of future secure or generation to meet or fulfill their needs is called. Sustainable development is a challenge regarding between environment and development and make balance between these to see the present needs sustainable development is a priority of the national or international community.¹

In this paper I want to highlight women is pole in environment management and development their full participation is therefore essentials to achieve sustainable development.

*Jyoti Diwakar, LLM, Research Scholar, Department of Law, Jiwaji University Gwalior. ¹I. Dr. S.C. Tripathi, Mrs. Bibha Arora, "Environment law" central law publication 5th Ed. 2012 Pg 1.