Acknowledgements

To complete this study I have incurred many debts of gratitude. I am highly obliged to my guide and supervisor Dr. Amal Das, Professor in History, University of Kalyani. He always gave me valuable suggestions and encouragement and thereby enabled me to complete this study. Without his generous and scholarly help, this study would not have been completed.

I also owe a debt of gratitude to Alok Ghosh, Research Associate, Teaching, Department of History, Kalyani University, for his valuable suggestions. I would like to thank Professor Sabyasachi Chattopadhyay and Professor Soumitra Sinha for their assistance from time to time.

I can never thank Dr. Subhendu Sarkar, my friend, who maintained his interest throughout the period of my study and made valuable suggestions and incisive criticism. I owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. Arunadoy Mukherjee for taking labourious task of going through the manuscripts and offering interesting insights.

I owe special thanks to the deputy director of West Bengal State Archives Mrs. Bidisha Chakraborty and Madhuridi for their assistance in procuring materials from the midst of huge documents at West Bengal State Archives. I would like to thank to other staffs of the state archives and staffs of National library, Kolkata and central library of Kalyani University. I am also thankful to the administrator of the Kalyani University.
I express my thanks to my family for giving their support all the time. The responsibilities for all errors are mine alone.
