ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. V. H. Sonawane, for his valuable guidance, encouragement and cooperation throughout the course of this study, without which it would not have been possible to complete this work.

I am extremely thankful to Prof D.P. Agrawal, for his constant encouragement and the keen interest that he showed in my progress.

Prof V. N. Mishra and Dr. V. S. Shinde of the Deccan College, Pune; Dr. P. C. Prasad, Director, Bihar State Archaeology Department; and Prof Suraj Bhan of Kurukshetra University; were kind enough to provide the samples for the analyses. I am indeed grateful to them for the faith they reposed in me. Without their help this work would not have been possible. I am also thankful to Dr. P. K. Jaiswal and Dr. Arvind Mahajan for permitting me to study the Patna Museum samples. My thanks are also due to Dr. A. K. Prasad and Dr. Satindra Kumar Jha, for their hospitality and help during my visit to Patna.

My special thanks are due to Dr S. Gangadharan, Head, Analytical Chemistry Division, B. A. R. C, Dr. H. N. Bajpai, also of the Analytical Chemistry Division and Dr G. E. Prasad, of the Metallurgy Division, also of B. A. R. C, for allowing me to utilize the facilities at the Bhabha Atomic Research Centre, Bombay, and helping me in my analyses.

Dr. Peter Northover, Oxford University, was kind enough to send me a lot of relevant literature. I am truly thankful to him.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Prof V. S. Parekh, Head, Department of Archaeology, M. S. University of Baroda, for his constant encouragement and support. I am thankful to Dr. K Krishnan, for his helpful suggestions and the interest that he showed in my work. My thanks are also due to Dr. P Ajithprasad.

I would like to thank Shri Sukhram Rathwa, for the drawings and Shri A. S. Pawar for photographing some of the samples. I also wish to thank Shri S. D. Pathak, Shri Rajesh Bhrambhatt and all other staff members of the Department, as they have helped me in one way or the other in my study.

The financial assistance provided by the Ford Foundation is also gratefully acknowledged.

I am grateful to Shri H. M. Chunnawala for his invaluable help during the compilation of this thesis.
All my friends, especially, Shri Saji Thomas, Miss Bhamini Mahida, Miss Sushmita Sen and Miss Vidya Kotecha deserve special thanks.

Most of all, I am obliged to my parents, parents-in-law and my husband, Shri R Kesavan, for their encouragement and moral support throughout my study.

March 1994 Rajam Seshadri