ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My thanks are due first to the 146 leaders and sub-leaders of the Congress, Swatantra and Praja Socialist Parties in Baroda City, who so graciously and willingly permitted themselves to be interviewed for this study. Their hospitality and co-operation, I hope, has resulted in the explicitation of (1) certain determinants and sub-processes of people's participation in political parties and (2) certain theoretical dimensions of party organizations.

I also acknowledge gratefully the financial assistance given by the University Grants Commission of India toward the defrayment of the expenses for the machine-processing of the data and for the calculation of percentages and the gamma statistic on a Facit machine. This work was done by the Statistical Service Unit of the M.S. University of Baroda.

I am very grateful to Dr. Rajni Kothari, Director, Centre for the Study of Developing Societies, Delhi, for his advice and encouragement. Dr. Kothari's colleagues, Mr. D.L. Sheth and Dr. Bashiruddin Ahmed, introduced me to some relevant interview instruments developed by the "Centre," from which I have drawn while constructing the questionnaire for the present research. (See also my acknowledgements in footnotes 44 and 45 of chapter II and in the footnote to Table 6.4 of chapter VI.)

It is a pleasure to thank my colleagues, Messrs. A.P. Rana (formerly my teacher), R.A. Vakil, D.H. Mohite and H.C. Shukul, for their kind co-operation. Mr. R.A. Yakil helped in identifying the caste affiliations of the names of the thousand and odd active members of the Congress and Swatantra parties in Baroda City.

My greatest indebtedness is to Professor K.S. Desai, Head of the Political Science Department at the M.S. University of Baroda, whose advice and stimulation guided me throughout this study.
