The present study of potters and their crafts in Panchmahals, Baroda and Broach districts was undertaken to understand the socio-cultural and technical aspects of the present day potters and then to compare the typology of the products to those that are obtained from archaeological sites, with a view to understand ceramic traditions prevalent in this region. This work required the guidance, cooperation and assistance from different individuals and institutions.

I wish to express my deep sense of gratitude to my guide PROFESSOR R.N. MEHTA, Head of the Department of Archaeology and Ancient History, who initially suggested this topic to me, and gave his excellent guidance and unrelenting help throughout the course of this study. But for the encouragement given by him and a lot of time spared by him during the last stages of this work, the thesis would have been further delayed.

I am also thankful to my teachers Dr. K.T.M. Hegde, Dr. S.N. Chowdhary, Dr. B. Suryabanshi and Dr. (Mrs.) D.R.
Shah for their many suggestions and advices. I am also highly grateful for the help rendered to me by various colleagues and friends in the department. Shri R.C. Sutharia prepared all the photographs, Shri Ghufran A. Qidwai prepared all the figures, and Shri Navinbhai Khatri and Shri R.J. Khatri prepared the maps. Shri Hiralal was helpful in finding books. They have helped in various other ways also and their help has been invaluable. I am also grateful to my friends Ram Mirchandani, Rajni Yadav and Albeli Rijhsinghani for helping me in all the stages of work. I must also express my sincere gratitude to my brother Dr. S.R. Hashim who helped me in various ways.

I also feel a sense of gratitude towards the potters and other villagers of these three districts for their co-operation and all types of help during the course of my data collection.

I am very grateful to The M.S. University of Baroda and the University Grants Commission for awarding me a scholarship, without which this work would not have been possible.

I am also thankful to Professor S.B. Deo, Head,
Department of Archaeology, Deccan College, Poona and Dr. Majmudar from the same institution for giving me useful guidance. I am particularly indebted to Shri W.H. Siddiqi, Superintending Archaeologist, Archaeological Survey of India for giving me guidance, library facilities and a lot of help during my field work.

The staff of the Shrimati Hansa Mehta Library and Oriental Institute Library of the M.S. University of Baroda; Deccan College Library; Poona and National Museum, New Delhi were very kind in extending all the facilities to study and closely observe the materials.

I am very grateful to Shri C.N. Kachhia for his speedy and excellent typing work.

BARODA: 10th November, 1977

S.A. HASHIM