ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The successful completion of this thesis was made possible by the encouragement and help given by a number of people. Mere words will not suffice my deep sense of gratitude to Professor V.H. Sonawane, who guided me whenever I stumbled on difficult path and extended his helping hand promptly and cheerfully whenever needed. This thesis would not have reached its logical conclusion without his unfailing support and invaluable guidance. His constant encouragement and constructive criticism has been an immense source of inspiration. I am thankful to him for his unflinching belief in my ability and for being more than a guiding teacher.

I would also like to thank Dr. P. Ajithprasad, who introduced me to this subject and taught me to think in a wider perspective. I had some very useful discussions with him, which has helped me to enhance my knowledge in various fields of Archaeology. He has given his valuable time in advising on numerous occasions with encouragement and understanding of all academic problems. I am particularly indebted to him for going through my thesis with great patience while it was in progress and for making necessary corrections, offering constructive criticisms and suggestions.

I am thankful to all the staff members of the Department of Archaeology, M.S. University of Baroda for their keen interest and kind help at various stages of my study. Special thanks are due to Shri Ibrahim Seikh for helping me photocopying the thesis.

I am also grateful to Shri Y.S. Rawat, Assistant Archaeologist, A.S.I. Excavation Branch V, Vadodara for allowing me to use the library facility. I am deeply indebted to Professor G.L. Possehl and Dr. V.S. Shinde for seeing my artifact collection and for offering useful suggestion.
I would like to gratefully remember all those people of the villages of the area of my study, specially Shri Ganu Usman Vohra, for their hospitality and help which made the exploration a pleasant experience. Thanks are also extended to my friends Bijoy Kumar, Azra Khan, Saji Thomas, all other friends and the Fatehganj gang for their help and encouragement.

I would like to gratefully acknowledge the financial assistance provided by the Ford Foundation Grant for this study.

To Kiran Dimri, for being a source of encouragement. Her unique way of motivation and instigation has helped me to grow and reach this stage. I am thankful to her for being with me through the thick and thin.

My sister and Brother-in-law has been with me whenever I was in need of emotional support. Their support and encouragement has been of great help.

Lastly to my parents who has more belief in me than myself. Their support during the distressing moments of my life can never be put in words. I am grateful to them to be with me all through.

August 24, 1999

Abhijit Majumdar