ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

To…… Chandrakala and C.N. Venkatswami

This study would not have been possible without the encouragement and support of several individuals. I would like to thank my supervisors Professor S Anandan, Professor N Sanjeeva Reddy and Dr Anna Ragini Chelappa.

The ICMR has supported the students and extended every possible support to the candidates without which completion of this task would have been impossible. I acknowledge the support for this study through their grant.

Professor Anandan is an inspiration to me. I thank him for his enduring support during the last six years. I admire his genuine concern for his students and colleagues. His passion for excellence and perseverance are feats which I would like to cultivate for my career. His people management skills and relentless efforts to complete a project are few of the many lessons I will cherish. Sir, words can never express the gratitude I have for you.

Professor Sanjeeva Reddy has been a wonderful supervisor and a great teacher in guiding the research. His insights into the subject helped in shaping my study. His attention to detail and meticulous approach are attributes I would like to inculcate in future.

This project would not have been possible without the support of my research advisor Dr Anna who accepted to supervise this study and oversaw it till its successful completion. It was a great opportunity for me to work closely with her over the last three years. Her enthusiasm and energetic attitude inspires any individual who meets her, I am no exception.

Prof. S.P Thyagarajan, his valuable advice and critical remarks emanating from his long experience in research helped in fine tuning to present a cogent study.

My special thanks are due to Prof Shobana, who provided an example of hard work and extended her expertise and concern for my academic needs. Her academic excellence is something I will always look up to. The Department of Dermatology Dr Sudha, Dr Mahalakshmi, Dr Murugan, Dr Adi Krishnan and Dr Krishnakanth who were always willing to help.
Dr Sharmatha who was right next to me through my first three years. She would make me look at the toughest of problems with ease. Staff from the department, nurse Mrs Jabarani and Mr Gopi who were ever willing to lend a helping hand with the day to day procedures, specimen collections and patient enrolment. Mrs Valli who made sure we had food on time. My senior and junior post graduates who helped through tough days, were extremely cooperative and created a good working ethos.

My special thanks to Dr. Shraddha Madanagobalane. We met when we enrolled for our PhDs. Managed to fall many times and gathered ourselves up every time. You have grown to be a good advisor and a great friend.

I am thankful to Prof Anbazhagan and Dr. Ben of the biochemistry department, who were instrumental for making available all the requisite material for assays and creating a friendly environment in the central laboratory.

I thank Prof Sarah Kuruvilla, and Dr. Shalinee Rao from the department of Pathology who brought their professional skills to bear on the reading and interpretation of histopathology slides. I thank Dr. Porchelvan for his statistical inputs. My sincere thanks to biostatistician Mr David Raj M.Sc for his expertise in analysing clinical trials and for answering all our queries inspite of his work schedule.

An important piece of my gratitude is due to Mrs Viji M whose competence in handling paper work saved me a lot of time. I would like to place on record my heartfelt gratitude and appreciation for my patients, but, for whose willing cooperation and enthusiasm this study would not have been possible.

The load of field work was cheerfully shared by many, but Ms Dhanalakshmi Amirthalingam deserves special mention for her work. Her energy kept me going through this study. Mr Selvaraj for driving us around to finish this project. I thank Sri Ramachandra University for awarding me the research scholarship. The library and technical facilities of the university have been indispensable.

My mother Sashikala, who took over all my responsibilities so I can finish my work, my grandmother Mrs. Rani Nagarajan, my father C N Paramasivan, my sister Dr Pooja and brother Adithya for believing in me. I hope to keep them proud. I thank my extended family for their endless love and concern.

My aunt Dr Sooriyakala Sreekumar. My inspiration from my earliest age. You have shown us what it is to work hard and succeed.
My mother in law, Mrs Sarojadevi Narasimhan. You have been least demanding and most supportive.

To my handsome son Ishan, I have lots to make up for all the time I missed being with you. You have been my energy when I was down, and my smile when I was going to cry.

To my husband Dr Padmanesan who has always been there. This thesis would never have been possible without you. You supported me and constantly encouraged me when the tasks seemed insurmountable.

I dedicate this thesis to my Grandmother Mrs Ambika Tharmalingam. We wouldn’t be….. if not for you.
