ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present study is a modest attempt to understand and assess the distribution of basic urban services in the slums of Baroda city with emphasis on various politico-administrative aspects involved therein. In carrying out this study I have incurred numerous obligations. Firstly, I have great pleasure in acknowledging the debt I owe to my research guide and teacher Dr Priyavadan M. Patel of the Department of Political Science, the Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda. I am extremely grateful to him for his invaluable guidance, help, encouragement and keen interest in the work. I am grateful to Dr. D. H. Mohite, Professor and Head, Department of Political Science for taking interest in my work and constantly encouraging.

I am singularly fortunate to be granted permission to avail the benefit of guidance and processing my data under the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) Guidance and Consultancy Scheme at the Centre for Social Studies, Surat. I thank Professor Lancy Lobo, Director, CSS for this kind permission and to Dr. D.C. Sah for all necessary help, guidance and cooperation. I am equally indebted to Mr Vimal Trivedi of the CSS for teaching and discussing the systematic steps involved in data processing and thereby helping me in smooth and quick processing. Earlier during data collection phase, I was variously helped by Ms. Vibhuti Pathak, Ms. Jahan Aara and Ms. Bharti Parmar. I thank them for their help and cooperation which they offered as and when needed.

I am also thankful to the Honourable Mayor, Smt. Bharati Vyas for sparing me sometime from her busy schedule and answering readily to my key questions. I would like to thank the councillors of various wards to discuss few issues and problems of slum areas. I am equally thankful to Mr. G. R. Aloria (IAS), Municipal Commissioner, Vadodara Municipal Corporation for readily accepting as well as giving me his valuable time to interview him. I would also like to thank other corporation officials of such departments as hydraulics, drainage, sewage, health etc. who have spared time to discuss various issues of the study. I refrain from acknowledging their contribution by name as they have preferred anonymity for understandable reasons.
I would further like to register thankfulness to the Baroda Citizens Council for sparing me the list of slums in Baroda, which has been of immense help and crucial for the research which I undertook.

I am grateful to Mr. Kedar Pradhan and Mr. Pravin Chalke for typing this thesis so neatly as well as for being patient and cooperative in this strenuous endeavour.

I then would like to express my gratitude to my younger sister, Anu who has been of immense help in many respects all through this work.

My husband, Nimesh has stood by me always with full understanding of the demands of the doctoral work. He has cheerfully and gracefully endured through my long absences from home especially during data collection and data processing phase and fluctuations in the temperament that resulted from the ups and downs of the work. Our sweet little daughters, Shikha, who arrived in the midst of this work, I feel, has borne the most brunt of my absence and often insufficient care and attention. I mention these sentiments to acknowledge my constant awareness and sensitivity to encroachment on their time as wife and a mother.
