LIST OF TABLES

No. Page: No
4.1 Area specific Studies on leprosy. 32
4.2 Countrywise number of social science articles and papers published or presented. 33
4.3 The variable results of early trials of BCG Vaccination in human with variable results of tuberculosis or leprosy using animal model of human. 40
5.1 World prevalence of leprosy (according to WHO statistic, 1968) 71
5.2 Distribution of registered leprosy cases by WHO region, 1986. 73
5.3 Distribution of registered leprosy cases by WHO region 1990. 75
5.4 Estimated and registered leprosy cases in the top 25 countries, by WHO region, 1991. 77
5.5 Reported registered leprosy cases by WHO region for the year 1966, 1976, 1985 and 1990. 79
5.6 A rough estimate of state-wise distribution of leprosy 85
5.7 Prevalence of leprosy in India 1871-1991. 88
5.8 Expected decline in cases on record (in thousand). 90
5.9 Prevalence rate of Gujarat from 1955 onward. 92
6.1 Census details of Vadodara district.

6.2 Epidemiological information of leprosy under NLEP in Vadodara district.

6.3 Leprosy situation in Gujarat under NLEP.

7.1 Number of villages town/cities affected by leprosy in Vadodara district in all four strata.

7.2 Talukawise position of the villages and towns existing and surveyed classified according to prevalence rates.

7.3 Talukawise position of number of villages and towns having active leprosy cases classified by prevalence rates.

7.4 Number of leprosy cases found in urban and rural areas of Vadodara district classified by prevalence rates.

7.5 Talukawise breakup of Total number of leprosy cases found in urban and rural areas of Vadodara district classified by prevalence rates.

7.6 Talukawise breakup of number active cases of leprosy, found in urban and rural areas of Vadodara district, classified by prevalence rates.

7.7 Information on the total cases in existence and traced during survey in Vadodara district.

7.8 Talukawise distribution of area surveyed.
7.9 Details of persons interviewed in Vadodara district.
7.10 Talukawise break-up of leprosy staff position and number interviewed.
7.11 Place of detection of leprosy cases.
7.12 Mode of detection of leprosy cases.
8.1 Details about leprosy survey in Vadodara district.
8.2 Survey details done in the schools within Vadodara district.
8.4 Wardwise position of leprosy in Vadodara city.
8.5 Leprosy cases surveyed in Vadodara district classified by age and sex type of leprosy cases.
8.6 Association of Age & Sex with infectivity of the cases of child, adult, relapse & RFT cases.
9.1 Range of clinical manifestation depending on the infected individual's resistance to leprosy bacilli.
9.2 Type of treatment undergone by sufferers.
9.3 Subjective responses to effects of the drug used in the treatment of leprosy among sufferers.
9.4 Number of cases with enlarged or thickened nerves.
9.5 Classification of deformities/disabilities based on
WHO grouping.

9.6 Detailed classification of Grade-II deformity. 167

9.7 Number of relapse cases classified according to type of relapse. 169

9.8 Time of occurrence of relapse cases after made RFT. 169

9.9 Family history of leprosy cases traced during survey. 171

9.10 Status of BCG scar among leprosy sufferers. 173

9.11 Cross examination of family contact with the status of BCG scar. 174

9.12 Summarised information of Table 9.11. 175

10.1 Distribution of cases according to physical features. 200

10.2 Basic information on area, population and leprosy in Vadodara district. 201

10.3 Association between number of leprosy cases and soil groups classified by AWHC at the depth of 90 cm. 208

10.4 Association between number of leprosy cases and soil groups classified by SSP at the depth 90 cm/hr. 211

10.5 Number of leprosy cases reported at the end of quarter of the year and their variation (%) from the expected cases. 215

10.6 Classification of village and town and leprosy cases found in it according to prevalence rates of Vadodara 230
10.7 Total number of village and town, number of leprosy affected villages and town and number of leprosy cases classified according to population density.

11.1 Castewise classification of leprosy cases traced during survey.

11.2 Leprosy cases according to their education.

11.3 Classification of per capita income (per month) of all (Adult, child, Relapse & RFT) types of leprosy cases surveyed.

11.4 Number of leprosy cases in various family income groups according to their family size.

11.5 Number of leprosy cases by type of family.

11.6 Classification of leprosy cases according to profession.

11.7 Details of living condition of leprosy sufferers (active adult cases only)

11.8 Criteria of social composite score.

12.1 Type of problems associated with Active adult leprosy cases.

12.2 Cross examination of the total of score of problem associated with leprosy patient with duration of sufferings of leprosy patient in each group.

12.3 Details sufferer's attitude towards normal persons in the family or community etc & vice versa.

12.4 Criteria for judging the knowledge, Awareness & perception (KAP).

12.5 Details of responses of KAP among sufferers & non-sufferers.

12.6 Final KAP score among sufferers & non-sufferers.

12.7 Responses regarding KAP among medical and paramedical leprosy staff.

12.8 Final score of KAP among medical & paramedical staff of leprosy.

12.9 The average score of the sufferers & non-sufferers in the various distance group from the district head quarter (DHQ)

13.1 Details of food stuff with calories and protein/100 gms of edible part of it, with English, Gujarati and scientific name of food stuff.

13.2 Details of non-vegetarian food stuff consumed by individual sufferers and non-sufferers among with protein and calories content found in the edible part of food stuff.
13.3 Details of vegetarian food stuff consumed per individual family per sufferer and non-sufferer along with protein and calories content found in the edible part of food stuff

13.4 Nutritional status of leprosy sufferers and non-sufferers after analization

14.1 Information of some parameters of leprosy in Vadodara district.

14.2 Calculation for new leprosy cases emerging and total deduction of cases by using regression line.

14.3 Future scenario of emergence of leprosy new cases and total deducted cases of the Vadodara district.

XVI