ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I owe my gratitude to various people who helped me reach this milestone.

It was my beloved mentor, Swami Amritatmananda Ji who provided me the necessary orientation and motivation to take up the PhD programme at Amrita School of Business with AMMA’s benign blessings during the Satsang at Mumbai, in March, 2010. Let me bow to Swami Ji in respectful gratitude!

Let me bow in respectful and grateful obeisance to Swami Amritaswaroopananda Ji who always has been a profound influence and inspiration to me!

Let me also pay my grateful respects to Swami Thuriyamritananda Ji for his kind and thoughtful advices!

My thesis Advisor, Dr. Amalendu Jyotishi (Professor, Amrita University) and co-advisors Dr. Ram Bishu (Professor, University of Nebraska-Lincoln), Dr. Deepak Gupta (Professor, Amrita University) and Dr. N R Bhanumurthy (Professor, National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi) architected and guided me skilfully and seamlessly through this programme. I would not have completed this strenuous journey but for the enduring and skilful guidance given by Dr. Amalendu Jyotishi through the unlearning, unwinding and re-learning processes. He provided the much needed emotional support as it was not easy for me to get used to the academic rigours of a doctoral programme after more than three decades of corporate life. Let me offer my most sincere thanks to Dr. Amalendu Jyotishi. Dr. Ram Bishu has been very patient, considerate and caring and took me through the course work and also through the rigours of the quantitative data analysis phase. Bishu Sir was not just an advisor but a great friend and mentor too. The first two published papers which I co-authored were made possible mainly because of his guidance and encouragement. Let me thank Bishu Sir, for all the care, guidance and directions meted out to me during the last four years! Dr. Deepak Gupta has been instrumental in instilling the research appetite and for helping me with the initial settling in during the course work. He assisted me with incisive research inputs and provided the most logical course corrections whenever required. Thanks to Deepak for all the good care and affection he has showered on me! Dr. Bhanumurthy helped me with the necessary guidance for my work and motivated me to go through the tough processes of a well structured PhD programme. He always got me out of the frustrating interludes of this long programme through his benign counsels. My thanks to him for his kind and sustained support during this research work!

I thank each of my professors who taught me the different courses: Prof. Jay Misra, Dr. Deepak Gupta, Dr. Amalendu Jyotishi, Dr. Ram Bishu, Dr. Balasubramonian, Dr. M G Deepika, Dr. Sushanta Kumar Mahapatra, Prof. Debashis Sarkar, Dr. Tithi Bhatnagar, Dr. Gurumurthy Kalyanaraman, Dr. Sudhansu Kumar and Dr. D D Roy. I take this opportunity to thank Dr. V S Somanath, Dean of Management, for having been a profound mentor throughout the highs and lows of this programme. Thanks are also due to Prof. Manoj and Dr. Raghu Raman for their guidance and facilitation.

My hearty thanks are due to Dr. Sangeetha Gunasekhar who has been very helpful to me with her insightful advices during the various stages of my research programme. Thanks are also due to Prof. Sobhana Madhavan for her incisive inputs and advices at various stages of my research programme. Sincere thanks to Dr. Prashobh Palakeel for providing me substantial support during the final leg of the research journey. I also thank the other Professors, Shrikant G. Kulkarni, Rajeev Prasad, Neerpal Rathi, Dr. Priyadarshini, and Sunil Puliyakot who have been very kind and helpful to me. Thanks to Mr. Jyothi Prakash, ASB Librarian, for his timely assistance all these five years.

The experts who contributed their inputs for the qualitative study on the validity of Hofstede’s dimensions in the Indian context deserve very special mention. Let me express my deep-felt gratitude to each of the experts for their thoughtful inputs.

I was very fortunate to have a group of friendly and energetic batch mates: Hema, Avinash, Rema and Shweta. They brought in the freshness of their knowledge which I badly needed having come out of my corporate life late in life. Thanks to them for the wonderful times we had. Thanks to Prof. K G Satheesh Kumar who belonged to my senior PhD batch; he was very helpful at various stages sharing thoughtful inputs and advices. We could also work together on a paper.

Let me take this opportunity to thank the various executives at ASB: Mr. Senthilkumar, Ms. Renganayaki, Mr. K Sathyarayanan, Mr. R V Madhukumar, Mr. R Gunasekaran and Ms. Aiswariya. I also would like to thank the manager and staff at the Amrita Guest House who hosted me all through the course work and beyond – my hearty thanks to all of them for providing me a home away from home.

I should profusely thank my doctors, Dr. B K Mishra, Dr. Dilip Panikkar, Dr. Sujit Nayanar, Dr. Soman Nair, and Dr. Vasantha Nair for deftly taking care of me during the critical illness phase during March-September, 2014.

My friends, Dr. M G Pillai, Mr. Frank P Thomas, Dr, Varghese John, Dr. Jyothi John,
Mr. Jojo Jose, Mrs. Jolly Jojo, Mr. Joseph John, Mr. Atul Gupta, Mr. Jacob John, Mr.
Krishna Das, Mr. Varun Rajpal, and Mr. Rajeev Krishnaswami have always inspired and encouraged me to take up the PhD programme. My friends, Mr. T P Mathai, Mr.
Abraham Joseph, M L George and my nephew, Mr. C K Gopan Thampi assisted me with the data collection through their extensive contacts. Thanks to all of them for being there for me whenever I needed.

My family has been God’s gift to me. My dear wife Ambika and my darling children, Arvind, Shruti, Gayathri and Akhil have guarded and comforted me from all the stress, strain and frenzy of not just the PhD programme but also the prolonged illness phase caused by a brain tumour during the course of the research programme: I am at a loss of words to express my gratitude to them. I bow my head in the memory of my late father, Krishna Pillai who had instilled in me the value of learning. My three illustrious elder brothers: Late P V Thampi, Mr. P G Thampi, and Mr. Sreekumaran Thampi have always been my role-models and source of inspiration. I kneel in respectful obeisance and gratitude to them. I also pay my love and respects to my elder sister Thulasi and brother-in-law Mr. K G Nair who were a great source of inspiration and encouragement all along.

Finally, all my love, respects and humble obeisance to the GODs who took me out of a critical illness phase and through the rigours of one of the best-structured and well-guided PhD programs in the country.

P Prasannavadanan Thampi
