ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The journey of my dissertation has been an intensely fulfilling experience, which has witnessed its own share of trials and tribulations, joys and disappointments, but one that has left me more enriched than ever before. However, it was a journey that I definitely could not have undertaken alone, and I would like to thank some of the people who became indispensable in helping me reach my desired ends, and more.

I am deeply indebted to my thesis advisor Dr. P. K. Priyan for guiding me through my intellectual endeavor. I am thankful to him for accepting me as a student and handholding me in every dimension of this thesis. His most important facet that I need to mention is about being patient and constantly encouraging throughout the process, ensuring that I can come out with my best. His support and guidance has been the cornerstone of the study.

I would also like to pay my gratitude to Late Dr. Rohit K. Prabhakar who was my first guide for this work. He set the track and direction for the study. I pray that his soul rests in peace.

I need to thank Ms. Minali Shah, Torrent Pharma and ex faculty at K.S. Institute of Management, for helping me design and analyze the crucial ‘focused group discussions’ with BPO employees. I need to thank the employees who took out time to participate in the discussion and provided vital industry inputs on the design of questionnaire.

Primary data collection was an important exercise considering the fact that industry operates in shifts and employees and managers are not so easily willing to share information. I would like to thank Mr. M S Navin at Epulseglobal, who helped with the survey in Bengaluru and Hyderabad and assisted me in tabulating and organizing the survey results.

The data analysis and interpretation using the SPSS software would not have been complete without the support of Mr. Nidhin K and Mr. Gopakumar, researcher associates at IIM, Ahmedabad.

I need to mention that the inputs and directional view from Dr. Rajesh Khanna, ICRA advisory was very useful. I also need to thank Ms. Aisha Nadeem, Partner, Ernst & Young for understanding my academic requirements and encouraging my pursuits and allowing time-off in spite of the hectic work schedule.

All the data mining for literature review was widely done at IIM, Ahmedabad and I wish to express my appreciation and gratitude to the library staff for being cooperative and helpful.
My sincere thanks to my husband, Aldrin and son Alan, who have lived the experience with me on a daily basis. Their constant encouragement and willingness to cope with my hectic academic and work schedules gave me the staying power on this uphill journey. My sincere thanks to Poly uncle and Jose uncle for the logistical support and my father-in-law, Mr. T V Anthappan for the constant push he provided to complete my thesis. A special thanks to my parents who instilled in me a desire to always do better. I would like to thank all my family members who have constantly been there for me with their love, understanding and patience that has brought me this far.

It’s difficult to enlist everybody in here, but if I have left out anybody, it’s not because I am ignoring them, but forgetfulness along with age is catching up on me.

Regina Aldrin
