ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My journey towards the completion of doctoral thesis is coming to an end. Let me express my gratitude and feelings to those who have accompanied me in this journey. First and foremost, my supervisor, Prof. K. N M. Raju, who always supported me and without his encouragement this study would not have been completed. The kind of academic freedom and moral support that he has extended to me is remarkable. I thank him wholeheartedly for all his help and support.

It was certainly ISEC, which gave me an opportunity to join for the doctoral programme and given me the fellowship without which I could not have carried out this study. I am thankful to Prof. Govinda Rao, previous director of ISEC. Immense was the help and support that he has given to me. I also acknowledge the help of Prof. G.K. Kadekodi, previous director of ISEC.

My discussion with Dr. Janaki Nair has helped me immensely and I express my gratitude to her. Dr. T. V. Sekhar and Prof. D. Rajasekhar have always extended their support and encouraged me through the study period. I am duly acknowledging the help and moral support of Prof. G.K. Karanth and Prof. R. S. Deshpande.

The help provided by various Ph.D coordinators such as Drs. K.V.Raju, G.S.Sasthri, Usha Devi are fondly remembered. The present Ph.D coordinator Dr. Anand Inbanathan deserves special mention. I am indebted to him for his timely support in difficult situations. I also thank ISEC Registrar, administrative staff and library staff especially, Mr. Kalyanappa, Mr. Venketesh, Ms. Leela, Mr. Rajanna, Mr. Suresh and Mr. Rudresh. Special thanks are due to Mr. Krishnachandran, Ms. Margaret and Ms. Shantha for all the help rendered during my study period. I also acknowledge the help of Mr. K.S.Narayana in completing the study. I am thankful to all the members of Population and Research Centre.

I happily remember Prof. P. Mohanan Pillai, Prof. T.M. Thomas Isaac and Dr. P. M. Michael Tharakan from Centre for Development Studies, who have helped me at various stages of my career and influenced my ideas and thoughts. I am grateful to all of them.
In this occasion, I remember my friend J Devika from CDS. My academic interactions with her has enriched and refined my thought process. Also, her affection and encouragement helped me to complete this study. I am also grateful to my friends Praveena and Beena from CDS for their support and constant encouragement. I thank Ms. Sasikala for the editing work.

T. Kannan is a friend who accompanied me in my academic journey during last six years. I enjoyed the academic debates and arguments with him and it often helped me to refine my thoughts.

I am thankful to ISEC friends, Gagan, Emil, Santhosh, Poulomi, Nisha, Lija, Prasobh, Jeena, Jyothis, Amalendu, deepika, Prathibha, Tunga, Anand, sathyapriya and Mahesh for the special company. Thanks are due to my colleagues as well as friends at KILA, Mohanakumar, Madhu, Raju, Thresia, John M Itty and Raghavaiah for their support. I also acknowledge the warmth and affection showered to me by my friends Reshmi and Munawar.

My loving daughter Janu gave me the experience of the pleasure of mothering without much pain. She has been a source of inspiration in my life. She is quiet understanding and her patience helped me to sit and work on my thesis.

My family was highly helpful and without which the completion of this study would not have been realized. My mother insisted me to continue my studies and happily took care of my child when I joined for Ph.D. Since then, she has been encouraging me to pursue and complete the same. I know that she will really be happy over the completion of this work. I am sure that the affection and support of my sister Anitha has helped me to complete the work. I remember Ajichettan, Chithra, Sreekumar, Meenu and Devu in this occasion and their affection towards me. My husband, Shibu has always been a source of encouragement and provided me sufficient space to make my choices in life. Though I happily acknowledge the same, I am not venturing into formally thanking him.

Last but not least, the women member of self help groups in Vellanad and Pallichal whose help was remarkable and I acknowledge it with due importance. I am also thankful to Mr.Krishna Kumar, who helped me in organising my field work.
