List of Tables

1. The major objectives in the testing of English:
2. Objectives involved in testing of English at the UG level
3. Emphasis on the attainment of refinement in writing skills in Tests
4. The testing of written expression/composition in the context of the process
5. Two items that must form a part of the answers in language papers
6. The criteria involved in the selection of questions
7. Assessment of the fulfilment of objectives in current testing practices
8. Reasons for Response to Item 7
9. Teachers' understanding of the terms 'test' and 'examination'
10. Reasons for the general belief that testing of English has failed
11. Indispensability of Essay-type questions in language tests at the UG level
12. The need for Introducing Objective-type of Questions
13. Tackling the possibility of guesswork and copying in objective type tests
14. Logic of a tilt toward text-based questions
15. Nature of Questions to be incorporated in English (Compulsory) Papers
16. On validity, reliability, usability, administerability, and scorability
17. Possible ways of making our testing material fulfil these criteria
18. Controlling the Lap-Up-and-Vomit Exercise
19. Standard procedure in testing English (Compulsory) at the UG Level
20. Failure of the existing system of language testing
21. How these anomalies can be rectified
22. Reasons for variance in marking
23. A common marking scheme
24. Points to be kept in mind by the examiners at the time of evaluation
25. Ideal ratio of marks for Content and Expression
26. Making our language tests more reliable
27. Expectations from the examinees in English (Compulsory)
28. Problems related to compilation of marks
29. Making English tests a reliable barometer of linguistic competence
30. The Responses of the teachers according to three variables
31. Difference in percentage of the first preference or rank of each item according to variables

32. Classification of the difference in percentage of the first preference or rank of each item according to variables