ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Doctoral research though seemingly an individual enterprise receives contributions from several quarters by way of guidance, assistance, encouragement and direction, both directly and indirectly. I have also received these from several sources mentioned below. I owe a word of appreciation and gratitude to all these personalities for their help, directly or indirectly.

First of all, I feel that a researcher can hardly find any satisfactory word to give expression to the sense of gratitude owed to such people for their guidance. No words can succeed to do so in my case. However, I take this opportunity to express my heart-felt sense of gratitude to my guide Dr A S Patel, Professor and Head, Department of Economics, Sardar Patel University, Vallabh Vidyanagar. I would like to note that in spite of his most busy time-schedule, involved as he is in a number of important assignments, he has remained prompt enough throughout the study period to provide his excellent and satisfactory comments vetting and honing my study to a significant extent.

I am also thankful to Dr H P Trivedi, Senior Lecturer, Department of Economics, Sardar Patel University, Vallabh Vidyanagar, who has carefully gone through the whole text and provided important ideas with regards to various aspects of this study. He, in many ways, remained a constant source of encouragement in many respects as a colleague in my department.
I am also thankful to Dr H F Patel, Reader in Economics, In-charge of Computer Unit, Department of Economics, Sardar Patel University, and Honorary Joint Director of Agro-Economic Research Centre, Vallabha Vidyanagar for his guidance and assistance in the methodological part of the study. Dr Javed Khan, Reader, Department of English, Sardar Patel University, Vallabha Vidyanagar has helped me to improve the presentation of language part of the study. I thank him for that.

All my departmental colleagues have also helped me by providing valuable suggestions, comments and relevant literature. I heartily thank them for their help.

I am also thankful to the UGC which has helped me by providing financial support through sanctioning a minor research project on the theme of this research work.

I am also very much thankful to Dr. D.T. Lakdawala Fund Trust for permitting me to attend the 4th Research Workshop organised by Gujarat Institute of Development and Research (GIDR) held at Ahmedabad during 18th and 19th March, 1995. In the Workshop I presented my Synopsis of Ph.D. study and obtained quite useful comments from Prof. V. N. Kothari and Prof. Pravin Visaria. I am very much thankful to both of them.

The earlier discussions with Professor Pravin Visaria, GIDR, Ahmedabad; Dr R H Dholakia, IIM, Ahmedabad; Dr C H Babaria, Deputy Director of Agriculture, Ahmedabad; Mr. B P Sojitra, Assistant Director, Gandhinagar; chief scientists in various departments of Gujarat Agricultural University proved very much helpful to me in determining the scope of the study.

Mr U D Vaghela and Shri Raju Patel, both of whom are Research Assistant in the Department of Economics, Sardar Patel University, proved to be of much help to me. I am also thankful to Mr Niranjan Parmar for word processing this thesis.

Last, but not the least, I owe a lot to my husband Mr M S Patel and my son, Mihir Patel, who gave me all the much needed co-operation and always remained by my side in providing me with their active support to complete this enormous time-consuming study. But for such a family environment, I could not have completed the present study.
