ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I have great pleasure to record the obligations incurred in completing the thesis.

Some was not built in a day. A research effort of such a magnitude could not have been easily undertaken and completed in record time without active support and cooperation of a very large number of people. It is humanly impossible to thank personally all those who have helped in making this possible, however, hard one may try.

It is my prime and pleasant duty to thank Dr. J.P. Patel, my supervisor who gave me unstinted support and made the completion of this laborious task possible in time by making himself available for consultations at all the stages. Without his whole-hearted cooperation, it would not have been possible to place this research work in right order.

I would like to place on record my sincere feelings of thanks to Dr. Pramod Kumar (Professor and Head), who gave continuous inspiration to get me on with my work.

Thanks are also due to the Principal, concerned staff and students of colleges

I am thankful to Mr. Paul Macwan, who has taken pains in typing my thesis neatly.
Lastly, I thank all those who have helped me directly or indirectly in the making of this thesis.
