PART I

DIRECTION

A number of controversial statements or questions with two alternative answers are given below.

Indicate personal preferences by writing appropriate figures in the brackets to the right of each question.

Some of the alternatives may appear equally attractive or unattractive to you.

Nevertheless, please attempt to choose the alternative that is relatively more acceptable to you.

For each question you have three points that you may distribute in any of the following combinations.

1. If you agree with alternative (a) and disagree with (b), write 3 in the first bracket and 0 in the second bracket thus;
   \[(3)\] a \[0\] b

2. If you agree with (b); and disagree with (a), write thus;
   \[(0)\] a \[3\] b

3. If you have a slight preference for (a) over (b), write this way;
   \[(2)\] a \[1\] b

4. If you have a slight preference for (b) over (a), write this way;
   \[(1)\] a \[2\] b

Do not write any combination of number except one of these four.

There is no time limit, but do not linger over any one question or statement and do not leave out any of the question unless you find it really impossible to make a decision.

DIRECTION

Each of the following situation or question is followed by form possible attitudes or answers.

Arrange the answers in the order of your personal preference by writing in appropriate bracket at the right, a score of 4, 3, 2, or 1 to the statement you prefer most; give 4, to statement that is second, and so on.

Example: If these were a question and the following statements were attractive choices you would place:

4 in bracket if this statement appeals to you most
3 in bracket if this statement appeals to you second best
2 in bracket if this statement appeals to you third best
1 in bracket if this statement represents your interest or preference least of all.

You may think of answers which would be preferable from your point of view to any of those listed.

It is necessary, however, that you make your selection from the alternative presented, and arrange all four in order of their desirability, questioning when your preference are not distinct.

If you find it really impossible to state your preference, you may omit the question.

Be sure not to assign more than one 4, one 3, etc. for each question.
