REFERENCES

Borse, S.K. and Bhave, P.V. (2000). Seasonal temperature variation and their influence on the level of dissolved carbon dioxide and pH in Aner

177-

Griffith (1935-37) : The limnology of long pool, Butterby Marsh, Durhan, an account of temperature, oxygen content and composition of water and of periodicity and distribution of phyto and zooplankton.

Gonzalves and Joshi (1945 a,b) : Fresh water algae near Bombay1. Seasonal succession of the algae in a tank near Bandra.

Jose (1990): Coronastrum latum - a new alga to India. Cryptogania i.e. Algologia., 2:9-12.

Primary production in three fresh water bodies of Andra Pradesh.

water of Mysore District occurrence of Cyanophycean bloom at Vishwamitri, Baroda as indicators of organic pollution. Indian J.

Correlation between fish production and physico-chemical parameters of water and soil in semi-intensive carp culture ponds

Nazneen, S. 1980. Influence of hydrobiological factors on the seasonal abundance of phytoplankton in Kinjhar Lake Pakistan. Int. Revue.

demonstration of tropic interactions affecting water quality of Rice study of the effects of fish zooplanktons on the phytoplankton of a Palmer, C.M. 1980 Algae and water pollution castle house publications Ltd. USA.

Philipose (1959) : Fresh water phyto plankton of inland fisheries.

Prescot (1939): Objectionable algae and their control in lakes and reservoirs.

Ruttner (1953): Fundamental of limnology. University of Toronto. 295

* Original not seen.