ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost I am extremely indebted to my esteemed research guide Dr. S.G. Deobhankar, professor of commerce, Sardar Patel University under whose scholarly guidance and supervision this thesis has been completed. I extend my immense gratitude to him for constant encouragement and infallible help during the course of my research work. He has been a constant source of inspiration, who in spite of his busy schedules and other academic preoccupation, devoted his precious time and shared his research expertise to enable me to understand the complexities of empirical research. He went through the drafts diligently and the final version of the study has been substantially enriched through his advice. I extend my immense gratitude to him for constant encouragement and infallible help during the course of my research work.

I am highly grateful to Dr. V.G. Patel Dean Faculty of Commerce, Professor and Head, Post Graduate Department of Business Studies, Sardar Patel University who had basically developed my interest for research work. I am also thankful for his care and affection and suggestions for effecting a number of stylist improvements throughout my work, I continue to owe my highest sense of obligation to Dr. S.G. Deobhankar and Dr. V.G. Patel.

At various stages of my research work, I have been benefitted from discussion with Dr. D.M. Shah Professor of Commerce, Sardar Patel University I am thankful to him for generously provided willing help to me. I would like to express my indebted to Department of Business Studies, Sardar Patel University for registering me for Ph.D. programme.

I am thankful to the respondents to the questionnaires for sharing with me their overt and covert experience and bank authorities for their kind co-operation and guidance which made this study possible.

I am also thankful to Librarian and Colleagues of my college who have help me in one way or any other.

I consider it my pleasant duty to express my sincere gratitude to the authorities of Charutar Vidya Mandal... especially Chairman Dr. C.L. Patel who has inspired me to complete the work within a stipulated time.

I owe a profound debt to Respected Prin. B.M. Thakar who gave timely reminders which made the work pleasant. His encouragement, blessings and affectionate pressure helped me in completing this research work.

To my father Late Manganbhai P. Patel and mother Late. Chancharben M. Patel, I owe everything that I am and all that I may be in my life. The training and inspiration gained and the senses of dedication and discipline imbibed from them are my strength. No words can adequately express my debt of gratitude for generating in me a perennial interest in higher studies. I am thankful to my elder brother Shri D.M. Patel (London) whose telephonic encouragement proved vital in this academic effort.

I will be failing in my duty if I do not here mention the tremendous co-operation I received from my wife Mrs. Meena, who not only co-operated, but also extended valuable guidance and help in the completion of my work, besides shouldering delightfully all other burden.
I must acknowledge and appreciate the contribution of my son Chi. Manan and daughter Chi. Hemali – whose patience and willing co-operation in ways more than one have manifested itself in the tangible form of the present study.

My words of thanks go to God Almighty for providing the wisdom to guide me through this work.

While I take this opportunity to thank all – they are too numerous to be mentioned in a brief preface, I would like to acknowledge my deep sense of gratitude.

Finally, I am thankful to Shri Nilesh M. Patel for developing the typescript and his care in work processing on computer.
