ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present study is the fulfilment of a long cherished desire which I nourished from my college days. Sometimes I found the goal so near, while at others it drifted away like a mirage. I had to submit to the destiny. Ultimately after a long chasing I could achieve the goal.

In the fulfilment of this desire, I have received the utmost cooperation from my colleagues, friends and relatives. At the outset, I feel highly indebted to Dr. J.H. Adhvaryu, under whose guidance the present study has been conducted. First, as a colleague in the Post-Graduate Department of Economics and later as a friend, our association dates back to more than fifteen years. He has actually been a friend, philosopher and guide to me. But for his cooperation and assistance the study would have not been a reality.

For conducting this study, the Government of India granted me two years study leave, which provided me all the moral and financial courage to venture in this academic research. I am particularly grateful to Shri P.G. Lele, Dy. Secretary, Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms, Government of India and Shri Sampat Kumar, Under Secretary in the above department in facilitating the grant of the study leave.

I take this opportunity to owe my respect and reverence... to my elder brothers Shri K.C. Sinha, Shri A.C. Srivastava and Shri R.C. Sinha who blessed me at all the stages of this study. The study is partly a fulfilment of their desires also.

I am grateful to my friends Shri O.P. Mathur and Shri N.T. Patel of Indian Institute of Management, Ahmedabad for the assistance received during the entire
period of this study.

I may make a special mention of my wife Mrs. Veena Srivastava, who provided all the necessary infrastructures and induced me to take up this work. My son Shashank used to keep track of my progress at each and every chapter.

At last I acknowledge with gratitude the hard work put up by Shri Unnikrishnan in typing out both the draft and final version of this thesis.
