REFERENCES

Journals

Ms. Jayalaxmi Kannan the author of this thesis was born on 28 March 1967 at Madras, India.

She obtained her B.Sc degree from The Teresian College, University of Mysore. She then did M.A. in English at the University of Madras after which she obtained an M.Phil degree in American literature from The Ethiraj College for Women, University of Madras. She won the Kunhi Raman gold medal for having stood first in M.Phil at the Ethiraj college. In addition, she also has a Post Graduate Diploma in Computer Programming and a Post Graduate Certificate in the Teaching of English from C.I.E.F.L, Hyderabad.

She registered for PhD in English Language Teaching at the faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Anna University in June 1992. Her area of specialisation is Computer Assisted Language Learning using Artificial Intelligence.

She has to her credit the following publication. "An ICALL Program for Reading Comprehension" in The International Journal of Communications, Bahri Publications, New Delhi, January '95 issue.