LITERATURE CITED

La1 G and Pant J C. 1980b. Laboratory and field testing for resistance in maize and sorghum varieties to Ch'rio pr1tr111i.s (Swinlloe). Indian J. Ent., 42: 606-610.

Rebe, M., J. Van Den Berg and M.A. McGeoch. 2004. Colonization of cultivated and indigenous graminaceous host plants by Busseola fusca (Fuller) (Lepidoptera: Noctuidae) and Chilo partellus (Swinhoe) (Lepidoptera: Crambidae) under field conditions. African Entomol., 12(2) : 187-199.

Siddiqui, K.H. Singh, N.N. Panwar, V.P.S. and Marwaha, K.K. 1996. Reaction of subtropical and tropical maize inbred lines to Chilo partellus (Swinhoe) and damage effect on silking, ear and plant heights. Ind. J. Entomol. 57(3): 254-258.

Smith, M.E., Mihmand, J.H. and Jewell, D.C. 1989. Breeding for multiple resistance to temperate, sub-tropical and tropical maize pests at CIMMYT. In CIMMYT.

Tasin Marco, Andrea Lucchi, Claudio Ioriatti, Mohamed Mraïhi, Antonio De Cristofaro, Zvi Boger and Gianfranco Anfora. 2011. Oviposition Response of the Moth Lobesia botrana to Sensory Cues from a Host Plant. Chemical senses (Accepted)

Van den Berg J. and Van der Westhuizen M.C. 2009. Chilo partellus (Lepidoptera: Pyralidae) moth and larval response to levels of antixenosis and antibiosis in sorghum inbred lines under laboratory conditions. Bull. Entomol Research., 87 : 541-545.

