ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

This thesis has been completed under the guidance of Dr. J. D. Mehta, Manager, Economics Department, ICICI. This formal acknowledgement is inadequate to express my feelings for my guiding teacher as I have drawn upon his time and experience lavishly. The debt I owe to him can never be put in words.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to Dr. S.K.G.Sundaram, Head of the Economics Department in the Department of Post Graduate Studies and Research, S.N.D.T. Women's University, Bombay. His guidance and encouragement has benefited me immensely.

I am deeply indebted to Dr. Geeta Bharadwaj, Deputy Secretary, Indian Merchants' Chamber, who spent many hours in patient discussion and in critical evaluation of my work. Her keen interest, valuable suggestions and continuous encouragement enabled me to complete this work.

My grateful thanks are due to Dr. S.S.Nadkarni, Chairman, IDBI for permitting me to draw upon the wealth of information from the IDBI in innumerable ways. I would like to mention in this context Dr. Mada, Ms.Bindi Mehta, Mr. Manoher Iyer and Ms. B.Billa who have patiently helped me in providing the base for this investigation. Mr. Godke of the Stock Exchange Library also deserves my sincere thanks.
To my colleagues in the SNDT Women's University, Department of Economics, I owe a special mention of gratitude for their continuous support and inspiration with specific mention to Dr. Jyotsna Rajput. The Staff of the SNDT Women's University Library and National Information Centre receive my eternal gratitude for providing me all the necessary facilities. I am also indebted to Ms. L. Bhagirathi of ICICI and Mr. Mehernosh Randeria and Eric Randeria for taking me through the morass of data and computation smoothly.

This research was supported financially through the U.G.C. fellowship under the 'Small Project Scheme' and I express my thanks to the University Grant Commission. I am also grateful to Mr. Madhukar R. Deshpande for typing this thesis efficiently and neatly.

I wish to acknowledge my heartfelt gratitude to the warmth and concern showered by my mother on me which has been a beacon of hope throughout this research venture.

The worst brunt of my research work has been faced in terms of neglect and inconvenience by my husband Dr. Minoo Wadia and by my Children Havovi and Adil who have cheerfully borne the travail and supported me sustainedly in a cheerful and optimistic manner but for which this thesis would not have seen the light of the day.

BOMBAY:
Milla M. Wadia
