LIST OF TABLES

Table: 1.1: Difference between Tacit and Explicit Knowledge

Table: 1.2: Difference between Embodied and Embedded form of Knowledge

Table: 1.3: Some of the characteristics compared to so-called western scientific knowledge

Table: 1.4: Some of the leading organizations active in the field of indigenous knowledge in India

Table: 1.5: Different categories of TKH with approximately count of their population in India

Table: 3.1: Population of J&K and Himachal Pradesh

Table 5.1.: Medicinal plants used by TKHs as ingredients of some common herbal products

Table 6.1: Distribution of TKHs on the basis of age groups

Table 6.2: Distribution of TKHs on the basis of gender

Table 6.3: Distribution of TKHs on the basis of educational qualifications

Table 6.4.1: Distribution of TKHs on the basis of range of diseases cured

Table 6.4.1.1: Distribution of TKHs on the basis of treatment of specialized diseases

Table 6.5: Distribution according to source of Traditional Knowledge Acquired
Table 6.6.1: Distribution of Traditional Knowledge Holders as per transfer of their knowledge

Table 6.6.1.1: Distribution according Knowledge transfer to various categories of recipients

Table 6.7: Distribution as per number of years served by Traditional Knowledge Holders

Table 6.8: Distribution of TKHs according to ways of diseases diagnosis

Table 6.9.1: Type of medicines used by Traditional Knowledge Holders

Table 6.9.1.1: Support for preparing self made medicines by Traditional Knowledge Holders

Table 6.10: Distribution of TKHs as per their number of generation

Table 6.11: Distribution of TKHs as per income earned from this profession

Table 6.12: Distribution of TKHs on the basis of Effectiveness of the treatment

Table 6.13: Distribution on the basis of area served by Traditional Knowledge Holders

Table: 6.2.1: Patient responses of various TKHs to analyse the impact factor