ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

“Thank you for showing me that there are people like you in this world…….Really, you made this day possible…….”

A journey is easier when you travel together. Interdependence is certainly more valuable than independence. This thesis is the result of almost two years whereby I have been accompanied and supported by many people. It is a pleasant aspect that I have now the opportunity to express my gratitude for all of them. This is an impossible task. I am going to try it anyway, and if your name is not listed, rest assured that my gratitude is not less than for those listed below.

“Guru and God both are here to whom should I first bow. All glory be unto the guru path to God who did bestow...”

With a deep sense of gratitude, I wish to express my sincere thanks to my supervisor, Professor S.D. Vashishtha, the former Head, Department of Commerce, M.D. University, Rohtak, for immense help in planning and executing the work in time. The confidence and dynamism with which Prof. Vashishtha guided the work requires no elaboration. His overlying enthusiasm and integral view on research and his mission for providing ‘only high quality work and not less than that’, has made a deep impression on me. I owe him lots of gratitude for having shown me this way of research. What I have known today about the process of research, I learned from Prof. Vashishtha. Besides of being an excellent supervisor, during these years, I have known Prof. Vashishtha as a honest, sympathetic and principled person. His company and assurance during the time of crisis would be remembered lifelong. I am very thankful to God that I have come to know Prof. Vashishtha in my life.

I specially thank to Prof. Narender Garg, Head, Department of Commerce for his kind cooperation and permit me to use the departmental facilities to do the research work. I would like to thank Prof. S. S. Chahal, for the help extended to me when I approached him and the valuable discussion that I had with him during the seminars. I have furthermore to thank other teachers of Department of Commerce, M.D.University, Rohtak for their cooperation and guidance. I will be failing in my duty if I do not thank the administrative staff of this department for their timely help.

I am also very grateful to many other people, who have helped me not to get lost during the development of this thesis by taking out valuable time from their extremely busy schedules to read, comment, clarify and argue a lot of issue discussed in the present thesis. But, I particularly appreciate the assistance of Sudhanshu Kumar (Economist, National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi), Dr. Sandeep Chahal; Manoj Sindhu and Late Sh. Sameer Mahalwat. I am very thankful to Manjit Singh, Department of Mathematics, Deen Bandhu Chotu Ram University, Sonepat, for discussion on various mathematical models and for constant encouragement to do good research work. Thank you very much Dr. Sumanjeet, for unconditional support. His true spirit and sacrificing nature always motivated me to do great things in life.

My sincere thanks are also due to authorities of library of the M.D. University, Rohtak; Institute of Economic Growth (IEG), Delhi; Ratan Tata Library (RTL), DSE, Delhi; Institute of Management Studies and Research (IMSAR), Rohtak; Omkarananda Institute of Management and Technology (OIMT), Rishikesh; Central Library, University of Delhi, Delhi; Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), New Delhi; Panjab University, Chandigarh, Chandigarh; National Institute of Public Finance and Policy (NIPFP), New Delhi, for extending their full cooperation by making available the material required for laying the foundation of the study.

No words can adequately express my gratitude to my family. I feel deep sense of gratitude for my parents who formed part of my vision and taught me the good things that really matters in life. I am indebted to my parents for always being there for me and for always believing in me. I owe to my sisters, Dipti and Rimple for their silent prayer for my work. I am also very thankful to my brother ‘Subham’ for his naughty behavior to relax me out of tension during the course of work. Last of all, I express my indebtedness to all those who have not been explicitly mention above but have been working ceaselessly behind the scene and have made a substantial contribution to this exercise. The chain of gratitude would be definitely incomplete if I would forget to thank almighty of God. Ultimately the God is behind all success, human beings only plan but results are attributed to him; hence my most ‘pranamas’ in his feet for this humble work.

Despite all of this able assistance, I accept full responsibility for any flaws in the content of present research work. I have been joy to craft it and I hope that I will help to advance the field of ‘Foreign Capital Flows in India’.

With Gratitude and Respect

Minakshi Paliwal
