ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am deeply indebted to my guide Dr. M.S. Kalanidhi, Ph.D., Retired Professor and Head, Department of Psychology, University of Madras, Chennai for her invaluable guidance, inspiration, untiring patience and constant support. The keen interest and involvement she has taken in this research work right from the initial stages and the valuable discussions, I have had with her, enabled me to channelise my thoughts and organize my efforts in the presentation of this thesis.

I express my sincere thanks to Dr. K. V. Kaliyappan, Ph.D., Professor and Head, Department of Psychology, University of Madras, whose encouragement has given a great source of inspiration to move ahead with the study.

I would like to thank Dr. T.E. Shanmugam, Ph.D., Emeritus Professor, Department of Psychology, University of Madras, for his constant encouragement.

I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to the Faculty Members of the Department of Psychology, University of Madras for their support and encouragement.

My special thanks are due to the School authorities, Class Teachers and the kind co-operation of Children who have participated in the present investigation, without them this research work would not have been materialised.

I am thankful to Dr. M.R. Srinivasan, Ph.D., Reader, Department of Statistics, University of Madras for his help to carry out the necessary statistical treatment to the data collected.

I also wish to record my appreciation to M/s. STUDENTS XEROX, Chennai for neat Laser printing, Xerox and Binding of the dissertation.

Finally, I thank every one of my well wishers in this opportunity for their kind co-operation in bringing out this research work successfully.

D. RANJINI DEVI