ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to a number of persons, without whom this thesis would not have been completed.

First, I would like to acknowledge the Dr. G. Chandrakantha and Dr. Prasad S. Thenkabail for their extensive help in helping me with the methodologies and suggestions. I extend sincere thanks for their inspiring guidance, constant interest, suggestions, and encouragement throughout the course of the investigations.

I am extremely grateful to Dr K.S. Anantha Murthy, Professor, Department of Applied Geology, Kuvempu University for his immense help and support. I am also extremely thankful to Dr. Syed Ashfaq Ahmed, and Dr. K.N. Chandrashekarappa, Readers and Dr. Govindaraju, Lecturer for all the help and support for completing my studies.

I am very thankful to G. Ranganna, Professor (Emeritus), University of Bangalore for his encouragement and guidance during my PhD Programme.

I appreciate the support and encouragement given by Mr. A. D. Ranjith and Mr. G. Sarath, Junior Research Officers, International Water Management Institute (IWMI), Colombo during my PhD Programme.

I sincerely acknowledge the International Water management Institute (IWMI) for providing all infrastructure and all data sets.
Working for IWMI gave me an opportunity to work on this project that led to this PhD thesis. I specially thank to former Director General Prof. Frank Rijsberman for providing the infrastructure and opportunity.

Perhaps my greatest good fortune has been to have my friends. I owe my heartiest thanks to Dr. V. Subba Rao, Dr. Murali Krishna Gumma, Dr. Chandrashekhar Biradar, Mr. T.G. Parthasaradhi, Mr. Praveen Noojipady and Mr. Aminul Islam for their friendship and support when carrying out this work. I owe a deep sense of gratitude to my ever-loving parents, my wife Lakshmi Devi, my daughter Sharmila, my sisters, and relatives for their love, encouragement and affection, without whom this treatise would have remained only an ambition. I express my gratitude to all whose names have not been mentioned individually but have helped me directly or indirectly in this work.

The last professional to handle my thesis is Mr. Kingsley Kurukulasuriya, editor par excellence. His language and attention to detail have immensely improved the meaning and readability of my thesis for which I am grateful to him.
