ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present study is related to the motivation which is an important aspect of human behaviour at work. In the same way the present study could reach completion due to motivation of many personalities at my almamater and the work place.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to Almighty God for providing me a chance to learn and serve in Dr. Rafiq Zakaria Campus under the able leadership of our beloved Chairman Padmshri Mrs. Fatma Rafiq Zakaria. This work would not have seen the light of the day without her continuous persuasion and encouragement.

I have been bestowed by the wonderful Research Guide Dr. Mrs. V.S. Mishra, and a mentor of research activities in the field of Commerce and Management Science, Dr. S.K. Mishra.

I also express my sincere thanks for the cooperation given by Dr. Maqdoom Farooqui, Principal, Maulana Azad College of Arts, Science and Commerce.

I am indebted to Dr. S. A. Mannan, Head Dept of Commerce and Management Science (Ex-Dean) and Dr. M. Razaullah Khan for extending their hearty cooperation in completing the present research.

I am also thankful to Mr. Mohammed Sanaullah Khan for helping me to digitally analyse the data. Thanks are also due to the staff of the Dept of Commerce and Management Science for their support.

Thanks to all those employers, employees and fellow researchers who spent their time and helped me in the present study.

At the end I must offer my gratitude to all the authors of books and articles, whose work has been directly or indirectly incorporated in my thesis.

Idrees Mohammed Farooqui