ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Research in human health or in the domain of cardiovascular medicine is a fascinating and stimulating experience. During the period of this study, I have had the privilege of receiving valuable guidance, tremendous support and overwhelming encouragement from several quarters. All these I must acknowledge.

I am eternally indebted to my esteemed guide and academic mentor Prof. Jitendra Mohan who inspite of busy academic schedules spared time to supervise my highly demanding research work. I admit that the conception and culmination of this research work was due to the high professional quality of supervision and inspiration I received from him. I consider it a pride and privilege to have carried out my study under Prof. Mohan, an eminent psychologist and a well known figure in international psychology fraternity respected for his intellectual precision, and enduring commitment to academic values and professional development. It would remain improbable to conceptualize how much intellectually poorer I could have been if I missed the life chance of sharing his great experience and knowledge and receiving a personalized academic instruction imparted in a friendly manner under his astute tutelage. Perhaps, the future will acknowledge my gratitude to him is eternal.

Similarly, I would like to gratefully acknowledge the untiring research involvement of my worthy co-supervisor Dr. Meena Sehgal whose thought provoking suggestions, well developed sense of details, constructive criticisms and expertise in the subtle art of research supervision enabled me to reach a standard sufficient for a profession in psychology. Dr. Meena is a teacher I would continue to adore for her extraordinary level of academic competence, brilliancy and commitment to quality education. I must confess that her distinction and experience in the field of research methodology was instrumental in the scientific shaping of this work. I would remain ever indebted to her.

I thankfully appreciate the support and encouragement received from the chairman and other members of faculty as well as the office, laboratory and Library staff of Department of psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh. I am immensely appreciative of library facilities extended to me by the library staff of Post Graduate Institute of Medical Education and Research Chandigarh (PGIMER), library of Indian Council for Social Science Research Chandigarh (ICSSR), Panjab University library, libraries of All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) and British Council New Delhi.

Let me also use this opportunity to express my gratitude to late Prof. H.J. Eysenck of Institute of Psychiatry London, Prof. M.W. Eysenck of University of London and Prof. Derek Johnston of University of St. Andrews, Scotland, U.K. for their keen interest in my work and for extending to me the research facilities of their Institutions as well as responding to my request for background papers. I wish to thank Prof. K.M. Cherian of Madras Institute of cardiovascular diseases, Dr. Naresh Trehan of Escorts heart institute New Delhi, Dr. V.K. Kapoor and late Dr. P.N. Chautani of Chandigarh Medical Centre for their professional opinions and articulated viewpoints I am particularly thankful to Dr. B.K. Sharma, Director/Professor of Post Graduate Institute of Medical Education and Research, Chandigarh for generously extending to me the research and library facilities.

My warmest thanks are also due to all the patients, physicians and other respondents who patiently and ungrudgingly performed the lengthy research shadow.

My heartiest thanks are due to officials of the Nigerian high Commission New Delhi and to all the Nigerian and other African students, friends and colleagues in Chandigarh who supported and encouraged me. I wish to specially record my gratitude for the valuable support from Dr. Sampson Ekwonna, Mr. Emmanuel Umerie, Mr. Kenneth Ekezie, Mr. Wilfred Ukpere, Dr. Chuks Ugo, Dr. Jonathan Okere, Paul Esika, Emily Bii,

I wish to place on record my deep sense of gratitude to my parents, family members and well wishers for their constant support and encouragement in time of need and for cheerfully accepting my preoccupation all these years. Mr. Virgilius Opara, Rev. Williams Opara, Mr. Peter Opara, Dr Eugene Mgbemere, Mr. Christopher Opara, Mr. Victor Opara, Patience Ezeh and Mrs. Rosana Opara all deserve my whole hearted appreciation. I sincerely thank all of them for their blessings.

I am as well gratified by moral support received from the families of Justice Metu, Unogu and Arihilam.

Last but not the least, I wish to thank following computer cent. Shiva Graphics, Bansal Graphics and Modern Computer Centre for the professional manner in which the typing of this thesis was handled.

Above all, I thank the almighty God for giving me the life and strength to undertake this challenging task in Panjab University, Chandigarh, India — a prestigious multicultural institution of higher education.
