ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis owes its existence due to the help, support and inspiration of many people. In the first place, I would like to express my sincere appreciation and gratitude to Dr. K.L. Ramakumar, Director, RC & I Group for his encouragement and moral support to complete my Ph.D.

I express my sincere gratitude to Dr. S.C. Parida, Guide for his valuable guidance and constant support throughout the period of this thesis. I express my sincere gratitude towards Dr. (Mrs.) D. Alamelu, Technical Advisor, for her valuable insight and persistent support throughout this work. Deepest gratitude is also due to the members of the HBNI Doctoral Committee, Prof. V. Venugopal and Dr. S.K. Mukerjee without whose critical comments and suggestions, this study would not have taken the present shape.

I am highly thankful to Dr. B.S. Tomar, Dean, Chemical Sciences, HBNI for his encouragement during the period of this thesis. I am sincerely thankful to Dr. A.R.Joshi and Shri Jawahar Sharma for making me expert in the field of fabrication and development of ion selective electrode.

I am grateful to Dr. A.V.R. Reddy, Head, ACD for his timely help during the period of this thesis. I am thankful to Shri N.K. Shukla, Head, Fuel Development Chemistry Section, PDD for allowing me to carry out research work inspite of my routine strategic work during the period of this thesis. My special thanks are due to all my colleagues from Product Development Division and Fuel Chemistry Division for their wholehearted support, encouragement and co-operation.

I am very much grateful to Director, BARC for allowing me to register for Ph.D. degree with HBNI as well as for kindly permitting me to utilize the infrastructure of BARC for this work. I express my gratitude towards HBNI under whose auspices this dissertation work was carried out.
Finally, I owe special gratitude to my mother for continuous and unconditional support of all my undertakings, scholastic and otherwise. I would like to acknowledge my wife Smt. Sunita Govindan and my little son, Master G. Kanak and all my close relatives and friends for their continuous and unconditional support of all my undertakings, scholastic and as well as for literally being the pillar of my sustenance.

(R.Govindan)