ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my special privilege to express my deep sense of indebtedness to my Supervisors, Dr. Jitendra Mohan, Chairman, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh and Dr. V.V. Upmanyu, Reader, Department of Psychology, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for their cheerful encouragement, consistent concern, valuable guidance, suggestions, and criticism during the preparation of this thesis. It was primarily their guidance - stern, sympathetic, sustained, and inspiring, all at the same time - that enabled the completion of this work.

I heartily thank Prof. V. Mohan for her affectionate keen interest and encouraging enquiries throughout the period of the study. At the same time, I am most anxious to express my sincere gratitude to Dr. Sushma Upmanyu for her sympathetic expert guidance and affectionate treatment.

I am also thankful to all the Principals and teachers of all the schools for providing necessary facilities for data collection. I am extremely thankful to the students, who acted as subjects and participated in the study with interest.
I want especially to express my thanks to Mr. J.C. Bajaj who took special interest in reading the first draft of the study and giving useful suggestions.

I am thankful to the I.C.S.S.R. for the study grants and I acknowledge the cooperation extended to me by the staff at Chandigarh and Delhi.

I wish to express appreciation to Mrs. S. Vasudeva who remained a constant source of inspiration and moral support throughout the study.
