ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Research involves development of ideas. It is building upon the ideas of researchers and thinkers who have gone before. It is a transmission of human culture and providing a new perspective and to create fresh insight into the social world. Contribution and efforts of different individuals, groups and institutions are vital to the research.

In this project, there are individuals and institutions that deserve sincere gratitude. I express my profound gratitude to my supervisor, Professor V.T. Sebastian. I am indebted to him for his intellectual guidance, inspiration and moral encouragement and support that has provided me tremendous energy and motivation for the completion of this thesis. His critical perspectivals and open mindedness helped me in developing the ideas in the thesis. Prof. Sebastian is a great human being, to me he has been a friend, philosopher and guide. Every interaction with him was a new experience that helped me personally to develop a critical approach. I also express my sincere gratitude to Professor Ms. Geeta Manaktla, co-supervisor for my thesis for her encouragement and guidance all through the period.

I am profoundly grateful to Panjab University, Chandigarh especially the Department of Philosophy for granting me admission to Ph. D. Programme. My special thanks go to the faculty of the department for critically reviewing my synopsis and critically overlooking some of my ideas during the presentation of the state of art seminar. I am thankful to the staff of Panjab University Library, Ms. Hema of the Departmental Library for rendering me sincere and prompt assistance during this period.

Doing Ph. D. is a very wearisome for a person who has to take care of his family and also perform official duties. It is not scholar alone who toils but wife, children and parents also share the efforts in the task. My wife, Dr. Rekha has been supportive throughout and encouraged me for this research project. My daughter, Ajanta and son, Amandeep happily supported my efforts for the study.
Tolerance, patience and farsightedness of my wife and children kept me pursuing my studies without much mental anxiety. I am thankful to my parents for imbibing me the spirit of lifelong learning. I may also appreciate the support of my friends in this endeavour. I sincerely acknowledge the support of my office staff. Lastly, my appreciation is also due to Mr. Rahul Joshi for the efforts in printing the text of the thesis.
