ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is my proud privilege to express my earnest veneration towards my esteemed teacher and supervisor Professor Vpinder Sawhney, Department of Economics, whose steering guidance and continuous encouragement enabled me to complete this thesis. But for her keen interest and persistent involvement at all stages of this work, it could probably not have taken the present form. Indeed, it is difficult to express in words what I owe to her.

I would like to articulate my appreciation to Prof. Gurmail Singh, Chairman, Department of Economics, for constant encouragement throughout the progress of this work.

I am obliged to my teachers, Prof. M.K., Kshurana, Dr. Naveen Sharma, Dr. Indu Verma, Dr. S.P. Padhi and Dr. Poonam Bakshi for their encouragement in this endeavour.

I acknowledge with thanks the help and encouragement given by my father in law, mother in law and sister in law. I sincerely thank my parents, sisters, younger brother for their constant encouragement and assistance.

I owe special gratitude to my husband without whose help and guidance this work would not have been possible.

A special note of thanks for the office and library staff of the Economics Department for the help rendered at the various stages of this research work. Finally, I am thankful to Mr Surinder Bajaj who readily typed many versions of this thesis when it was being written.

Harleen Shergill
16.05.14

Harleen Shergill