References...
REFERENCES

188

Educational Research, 17, 3-18.

Cassell Education.

Oz-Teacher Net. (2001). Oz-teacher net: Teachers helping teachers: Revised Ozturk, M. A. (2001). Personal and social factors that influence advanced mathematics course-taking during high school. Retrieved from the Proquest dissertations and theses databases. (ID 1216710401).

Padavick, J. (2009). Parental involvement with learning and increased student

American and Chinese families during school transition periods. American Secondary Education, 37(1), 41-42.

cognitive outcomes in Korea: Focusing on private Tutoring. Sociology of Education, 84(1), 22.

Pate, A. P. (1992). An ethnographic inquiry into the relationship between selected cultural factors and high achievement of three black male primary school students from single- parent homes situated in a low- income federally-funded housing project: A multiple case study. Retrieved from the Proquest dissertations and theses databases. (ID 746948781).

academic performance of students. Retrieved from the Proquest dissertations and theses databases. (ID 730301031).

Paulson, S. E. (1994). Relation of parenting style with ninth-grade student’s

195

Tootle, A. E. (1986). Analysis of the relationship between cognitive style(field dependence and independence) and levels of learning(rational development reasoning, abstract thinking). Retrieved from the Proquest dissertations and theses databases. (ID 752977031).

