ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Academics is a collective activity. In writing this thesis, I am conscious of having drawn from the work of a large number of people, both living and dead. The textual influences on me have been summarized in the bibliography. Here, I want to thank those whose personal words of advice and criticism helped the body of my work.

I would like to place on record my deep appreciation of, and regard for, my supervisor, Prof. Promila Vasudeva, who guided, helped and encouraged me at every stage of my work. She went through several drafts of the thesis with a lot of patience. For this and much more, I am indebted to her.

At the department of Psychology, Panjab University, many members of the faculty spared their valuable time to discuss my work and offer advice. I am particularly grateful to Dr. J. M. Jerath whose criticism and constructive advice helped in giving the thesis its present shape. I am also grateful to Prof. Vidhu Mohan for her help during the earlier stages of the work. Special thanks are due to Dr. P. Verma, Dr. L. S. Minhas, and Dr. Sudha Banth for being always available. The words of encouragement from Dr. J. Mohan and Dr. Meena Sehgal kept my morale high.

I am grateful to the following libraries and their staff for helping me use their facilities: A.C. Joshi library and ICSSR library at Panjab University, FSIFA library and Central State library at Chandigarh; Jawaharlal Nehru University library, Delhi University library, Ratan Tata Library, IIT Delhi Library, and libraries of NIEPA and NCERT at Delhi.

I am grateful to Dr. Dharam Vir for spending long hours discussing and criticizing my ideas. Regular prodding and guidance by Prof. S. L. Sharma, Prof. D. Goel and Prof. P. N. Pimpley kept me on my toes.

I offer my sincere thanks to the wholehearted cooperation of the youth of Chandigarh who formed the subject matter of this enquiry. My heartfelt thanks are due to Snehlata Jaswal, Monik Kalia, Shashi, Jyoti Seth, and Adarsh Jauhar, who helped me with data collection.

My colleagues and friends at the Centre for Management Training & Research, Kharar, were very supportive of my work. I am grateful to Mr. Vipin Dewan, Dr. Smriti Sood, Brig. Z. S. Dhaliwal, and Mrs. Anita Sharma for being always there for me.

My family has supported me throughout. I am indebted to my parents Diyadarshi Kapoor and Kamlesh Kapoor, and to Abhinav, Rasheeda, and Lubaina.

Financial support for the project was made available by the UGC in the form of junior and senior research fellowship. May such support for researchers continue!
