ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This thesis is the culmination of nearly eight years research work, under a Department of Ocean Development (DOD) sponsored project, "Politico-Geographic/Societal Dimensions of Antarctica-Indian Ocean", carried out at the Department of Political Science/Centre for the Study of Geopolitics, Punjab University, Chandigarh. My sincere thanks for the DOD fellowship which made this study possible. I owe a personal debt of gratitude to Professor S. Z. Qasim, who was then the Secretary, DOD, later Vice Chancellor Jamia Millia Islamia, and at present is a member of the Planning Commission and to Dr. S. A. H. Abidi, Scientific Adviser and at present Director at the DOD, for sanctioning the project and providing generous funds and other support to it and to me personally. In fact, their keen interest in the project has meaningfully contributed towards Indian Ocean-Antarctic research produced at the Centre under the pioneering and imaginative leadership of Professor Madan Mohan Puri.

For the inspiration, encouragement and assistance that have contributed so much to this work, my debts run deep to many.

I have had the privilege of working for this thesis under the inspiring and able supervision of Professor Madan Mohan Puri, who is not only my supervisor but also my ideal and philosopher. His inordinate and persistent drive for perfection, immaculate style, profundity, enduring commitment to academic values and unparalleled dedication to the spirit of inquiry have constantly motivated me in many ways—academic, social and intellectual. In fact he is an āchārya who shapes and designs the total personality of a student. Working under his supervision was a God-gifted treat and a memorable intellectual experience. I shall forever remain deeply indebted and grateful to him.

His wife, Dr. (Mrs.) Rashmi-Sudha Puri, Chairperson Department of Gandhian and Peace Studies, deserves as rich and earnest thanks. She provided an exampelry academic atmosphere at their residence, where every single word of the thesis came up for critical scrutiny. She never let me feel like a student, but always as a member of the family. In fact, the whole Puri family has contributed in different ways in this work.
The large number of libraries that enabled and enriched the completion of this work, apart from the one at the Panjab University, are the following at Delhi: Jawaharlal Nehru University, Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, Institute of Defence Studies and Analysis, Indian Council of World Affairs, the United Nations Information Centre, the American Centre, the British Council, Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, and National Institute of Science Technology and Development. The staff and the personnel at these places were most helpful and cooperative in all manner possible. To them all I owe a deep debt of gratitude.

I am beholden also to Professor K. K. Pathak, Chairman Department of Political Science for his many kindnesses, as also to the other members of the faculty of the department; to my friends and colleagues at the Centre, namely, Dr. (Mrs.) Jyotsana Bakshi, Dr. Balwinder Singh Dhall, Dr. Sanjay Chaturvedi, Paramjit Singh Kang, Seyed Sadrodin Moosavi Jashni and Amir Sajedi; Professor Iqbal Nath Chaudhary, former Principal Panjab University Evening College; Dr. Deepak Manmohan Singh, Department of Punjabi Studies; Shri Inderjit Singh Kang and Sukhjinder Singh Gill, of the Department of Evening Studies.

Professor D.R. Sharma, my boss and Chairman Department of Evening Studies has constantly encouraged me to complete this work. My two year stint at the Academic Staff College P.U., as an Assistant Director, under his enterprising and visionary Directorship, was a remarkable intellectual-administrative experience which has invaluably helped me to complete this work.

My special thanks to a sincere soul and dedicated friend Shri Dilbagh Singh of the Department of Gandhian Studies for his sharp reactions and sage counsel throughout the final scrutiny of this work.

I dedicate this work to my mother and the memory of my father. To my brother, grandparents, and sisters my debt is deeply personal, indescribable and eternal.
