This is of utmost importance to realize and express gratitude to the barefoot guru, in the following paragraphs, for he is the bridge across the tumultuous and gushing river of advance knowledge that would otherwise have encompassed the knowledge world without yielding a harvest in the impressionable mind of novice in me. He is the quintessence of the conscious and the subconscious in me. He is the man of keen intellect, fine sensitivity and wide vision, humane and yet the ascetic, who has suppressed his emotions, sublimated them and directed them towards his student. He is the man who commands fierce loyalty like magnet. He is the guru, who has agile eyes on the work of his disciple, guiding, coaching, encouraging and even generous to the cause of knowledge impart. He reacts to the student’s slightest tremor, gauges situation accurately and almost instinctively, with a knack of sharing knowledge, at the perfect psychological moment. He is the guru with immense and extra ordinary appeal, ready to respond to the call of every challenge.

The resplendent history of ancient India is eloquent about a battery of such greats. Dronacharya gave teaching a new dimension with his one to one values based ethical approach to nurturing talent to produce India’s greatest warrior; Lord Krishna turned the barefoot counselor to Arjun to evoke one of mankind’s greatest lessons. The razor sharp wisdom of Chanakya was responsible for the golden age of India. Unending is the list of those who gave invaluable lessons and unending is the list of those who imbibed those precious and priceless learning and further propagated them. Taking cue from this Guru-Shishya relationship I deem it as my proud privilege to offer my obeisance to my guru.

I express my sincere and profound gratitude to my venerated teacher and guide Dr. Charanjeev Singh, Reader, Department of Public Administration, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his persistent and consistent guidance, keen and immense interest, scientific but humane approach and innovative ideas meticulously transmitted through razor-sharp supervision which have largely been responsible for the logical conclusions of this study and enabled me to progress the work to the completion. I am highly obliged to him and feel privileged to be his student.
I shall always remain highly indebted to Professor R.K. Sharma, Professor of Public Administration, Fellow (Member Senate), Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his expert guidance, keenness for precision and thoughtful comments that gave me clarity of thought and much needed encouragement for completing this research endeavour. In spite of his busy schedule he always spared time to explain me the intricacies of research and complexities of writing a coherent manuscript.

I am thankful to Professor B. S. Ghuman, Dean, Social Sciences and Chairman, Department of Public Administration, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for his valuable suggestions, support and guidance. His helpful attitude always boosted my morale.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. Shubha Soneja, Formerly Director-Research, Helpage India, New Delhi, Mr. Rafique Ur Rahman, Formerly, Programme incharge, National Institute of Social Defence, Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, New Delhi, and Dr. Renu Tyagi, Scientist, Department of Anthropology, University of Delhi, New Delhi, for their support and help.

I am thankful to Mr. A. K. Joshi, Director-Aging, Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, New Delhi, for his assistance.

I am grateful to Ms. Ranjana Deswal, IAS, Director Welfare, NDMC, New Delhi, Dr. Jitendra Narayan, Director, Welfare Board, Delhi Government, New Delhi, Mrs. S. Satyanand, Chairperson, Servants of People’s Society, New Delhi and Mr. Morrison Rose, Delhi Christian friend-in-Need Society, for permitting me to collect data in the selected oldage homes.

I extend my special thanks to Ms. Anupama Dutta, Director Research, HelpAge India, New Delhi, for her assistance.

I am beholden to Dr. Indarjit Walia, Principal, National Institute of Nursing Education, PGI MER, Chandigarh, for her encouragement and support. She was a source of inspiration to me for completing this research work.

I would also place on record my utmost sincere thanks to all the Respondents and Staff of oldage homes who unhesitatingly provided all the information and were always enthusiastically ready to answer to all my queries without which it would have been impossible to bring this work to a successful conclusion.

I extend my thanks to librarian, secretarial and all other STAFF of Department of Public Administration, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for their constant support.

My heartfelt thanks to Mr. P. K. Saini, Director, ICSSR-North-West Regional Centre and all other STAFF members of ICSSR Guest House, Panjab University, Chandigarh, for permitting me to use library facilities and the accommodation.

I will be failing in my duty, if I do not express gratitude to my mother, Mrs. Kusum Gupta, my sisters Mrs. Achla Arora and Mrs. Honey Kapoor, my brothers Dr. A.K. Aggarwal and Dr. R.B. Saxena, my friends Dr. K. Redemma Raju and Dr. Manju Vatsa, for their constant encouragement for completing this endeavour.

I have no words to express my sincere and warm thanks to Professor Biker Singh, Professor R. K. Dogra, Ms. Anu Jasrotia, Ms. Tripat Kaur, Ms. Promila Kanwar, Mr. Komow and Mr. Souvitho whose unforgettable companionship and time to time assistance helped me in a big way during the most crucial period of my work.

The list of expression of thanks no matter how extensive is always incomplete and inadequate. This acknowledgement is no exception. Last but not the least my thanks are also due to all those who have been associated with this work but have not found their names in this acknowledgement, I shall remain ever grateful for their assistance.

The GOD Almighty has always been kind to me and ceaselessly showered HIS blessings on me. During the course of this study umpteenth time I felt HIS presence around and it is THY POWER that I could complete this study.

A research work is never complete and is never without shortcomings I own all the shortcomings in this work. However I hope that suggestions made by me would be of some help to the policy makers, the planners, the administrators and the managements in providing better oldage homes with quality services to older persons of this country.
