The years of research on this project have been indeed highly stimulating and rewarding for me. I cherished each and every moment of this span of learning and gaining insights into novel realms.

I am at loss of words to express my heartfelt gratitude and regards for my esteemed supervisor, Dr. Ronki Ram, Department of political science, Panjab University, Chandigarh. His constant inspiration to research on actual problems helped me work on a problem of contemporary importance and has paved the path for my future professional life. His constructive criticism, insightful thinking, scrupulous care and encouragement made my work enjoyable and enriched the thesis in many ways. I am also indebted to his kind support, scholarly guidance, keen interest, intellectual precision, penetrative insight and empathetic understanding at critical time.

profound appreciation of the support, I received from all my family members, especially my father, Sh. Chander Bhan, my brother and his wife, Ranbir Singh and Sneh Lata, sisters Rani, & Guddo and friends who are very close to my heart, who shared with me the pain and pleasure over the long and arduous journey of completing this research.

I am grateful to Sh. S. L. Sharma for undertaking the tedious job of typesetting of this thesis with patience and care. I shall always remain indebted to him for manifesting his invaluable trust in me.

On the completion of the present study I wish to express my humble thank to the Almighty whose benevolence gave me the perseverance, strength and courage to make it possible.
