ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The investigator takes it as a proud privilege to express her deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to her Research guide Dr. E. Swaminathan, Professor and Head, Department of Geography, Sri Krishnadevaraya University, Anantapur, who took meticulous care in putting her on the right track during the process of work. It is only under his guidance that the researcher's thoughts have attained maturity. Without his constant encouragement and cooperation the present study might not have been completed successfully.

The researcher also very much thankful to Dr. Y.V. Ramanaiah, Reader in Geography, S.K. University for his timely help and valuable suggestions throughout this piece of work.

The author extends her thanks to the other staff members of the Department, Dr. M. Sambasiva Rao, Reader in Geography and Dr. K. Raveendra Reddy, Lecturer in Geography for their help in some form or other.
Special thanks are due to Dr. S. Subbaiah, Reader in Geography, University of Madras for his timely suggestions and enlightenment of the problem.

Further, the investigator conveys her gratitude whole heartedly to her friends Ms. Vinolia, Ms. Radha and Mr. Penchalaiah who helped a lot in the collection of data and other information.

The investigator wish to record her sincere thanks to the officials concerned to Chief Planning Office, Agricultural Department and Meteorological Department, Nellore for their help by furnishing required data, maps and other information. Without their cooperation the work might not have been completed.

Thanks are due to all the farmers who have extended their unstricted co-operation during the investigator’s personal interview. They are thanked for their valuable information.

The author takes this opportunity to thank her friends and classmates, Mr. Chandrasekhar, Ms. Devaki, Mr. Kumar Reddy, Ms. Madhuramma, Ms. Meenu, Mr. Naveen Kumar charles, Mr. Ramakrishna Reddy, Ms. Seshamani, Ms. Vasantha and others.
The investigator is indebted to her parents, Brothers, sisters and in-laws for their constant encouragement and moral support all through her academic life.

Finally the credit of neat typing of this Dissertation goes to Mr. N. Hemakshi Achari.

\[ \text{Signature} \]

8/12/90