Acknowledgements

My heart rises in gratitude to the Almighty God, Whose benevolence gave me perseverance, strength, and courage to complete this arduous task.

My gratitude goes to Dr. (Mrs.) Vidhu Mohan, Professor, Psychology Department, Panjab University, initiator of the study to whom I owe an intellectual debt for continued guidance and discussion throughout the research project. Her patience, kind understanding, and continuous encouragement enabled me to pursue it with devotion and dedication. I wish to pay a special tribute to her critical genius, exacting standards, and her scrupulous care to preclude any danger of entanglements into abstract theoreticisms which militate against principles of research.

To Dr. (Mrs.) P. Vamudova, Chairperson, Psychology Department, I am indebted for providing me with the necessary facilities whenever required.

I express my sincere appreciation to the Principals and teachers of the various schools and colleges for extending their whole hearted co-operation in letting me collect the raw data from their students. For the students who co-operated with me as subjects for the study, I have fond remembrances for their patience and co-operation.
Special thanks to Mr. Anil for having processed the data and to Mr. Bajaj for his meticulous typing.

I express my heartfelt gratitude to my husband Ajitinder Singh, and children, Jasjit and Amrit for their co-operation, tolerance, unfailing help, and continuous support throughout the period of this study.

I am deeply indebted to my parents - who did not live to see me complete my work. Thanks to one and all.
